National Herald assets attached

Property worth ₹751.90 cr attached in money laundering probe; Congress flays ED action

UJWAL JALALI & PREETHA NAIR
@ New Delhi

IN the midst of the election season, the Enforcement Directorate on Tuesday provisionally attached assets worth ₹751.90 crore in a money laundering case against Congress-promoted National Herald and entities linked to it, drawing sharp reaction from the party.

"Investigation revealed that Associated Journals Ltd (AJL) is in possession of proceeds of crime in the form of immovable properties spread across many cities of India such as Delhi, Mumbai and Lucknow to the tune of ₹661.69 crore and Young Indian is in possession of proceeds of crime to the tune of ₹90.21 cr in the form of investment in equity shares of AJL," the ED said on Tuesday.

National Herald is published by AJL and owned by Young Indian Private Limited. Congress leaders Sonia Gandhi and Rahul Gandhi are Young Indian's majority shareholders with a combined stake of 76%.

The agency's action comes at a time when elections in Chhattisgarh, Madhya Pradesh, Rajasthan, Telangana, and Mizoram are in progress.

The Congress said the move reflected the BJP's desperation to divert attention from 'certain defeat' in the ongoing state polls. "This is a prefabricated structure of deceit, lies and falsehood, of by and for the BJP, to divert, distract and digress in the middle of elections," said party spokesperson Abhishek Singhvi.

The money-laundering probe stems from an order of Court of Metropolitan Magistrate of Delhi, which took cognizance of a private complaint. The court held that the seven accused, including Young Indian, committed offences under various sections of the IPC.

ED's provisional order has to be approved by the adjudicating authority of PMLA.

ED'S CHARGES

- AJL owed ₹90.21 crore to AICC, but the latter treated it as non-recoverable and sold the loan for ₹50 lakh to a newly incorporated company called Young Indian
- This action amounted to cheating the shareholders of AJL as well as donors of the Congress party
- AJL then held an EGM to increase share capital and issue fresh shares worth ₹90.21 crore to Young Indian
- With this, the stake of over 1,000 shareholders came down to 1% and AJL became a subsidiary of Young Indian, which took control over properties of AJL

First visuals of stuck workers; horizontal drilling prime option

NARENDRA SETHI @ Dehradun

THE first visuals of the 41 trapped labourers in an under-construction tunnel in Uttarkashi brought all-round relief on Tuesday, the 10th day of their stranding behind a heap of about 60 metre rubble.

With hot food being pushed through a 6-inch pipe inserted the previous day, their proper nourishment is now being addressed. It was through this pipe that endoscopic flexi cameras from Delhi were sent in to capture videos of the labourers speaking to their families, doctors, and officials.

Policywise, too, there was clarity as officials said resuming horizontal drilling was the primary option though it had to be halted last Friday after the auger machine developed a snag. Anurag Jain, secretary, Ministry of Road Transport and Highways, said that under the current circumstances "vertical drilling is the second best option".

By the time drilling stopped on Friday, 3-ft wide pipes with a total length of 22 metres had been inserted into the rubble. On Tuesday, 2.7-ft wide pipes, too, were inserted into the 3-ft pipes up to the total length of 22 metres. The challenge is to resume drilling since the auger machine hit a hard obstacle before it stopped.

Parallelly, drilling has been started from the other end of the tunnel — the Badkot side. Col Deepak Patil, in-charge of rescue operations at the tunnel, said, "Drilling work has started from the Badkot end. For this, a team of eight from THDC has arrived. A tunnel of 2-2.5-metre diameter will be prepared from here."

Meanwhile, following an advisory by the I&B ministry advising TV channels not to sensationalise their reportage, the tone of coverage in Uttarakhand softened.

Dist court's action against seer preposterous, says K'taka HC

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

THE action of the Presiding Officer (PO) of the Second Additional District and Sessions Court at Chitradurga in handling the POCSO cases against Dr Shivamurthy Murugha Sharanaru, pontiff of Sri Jagadguru Murugharajendra Bruhanmath, shocks its conscience and does not inspire confidence as it is preposterous to say the least, the Karnataka HC said.

"In what trial the PO wanted to summon the accused (pontiff) is still a mystery, as the trial in all the cases is directed to be deferred till the disposal of the petitions (filed by the pontiff questioning the proceedings are reserved for orders by HC) and there is a condition in the grant of bail that the accused shall not enter the jurisdiction of the sessions court. These two orders are thrown to the wind by the PO, in an act which is on the face of it subversive of judicial discipline," stated Justice M Nagaprasanna in the order passed on Tuesday. P6

KIRAN BALANNANAVAR @ Ballari

FOR the last seven years, students of a government residential school in Ballari district have been attending classes and staying in a godown. Yes, an APMC godown!

The new building to accommodate these students of Dr BR Ambedkar Residential School in Kerur village has not been completed in all these years. Though the work started in 2019, it was stopped abruptly. The students, both girls and boys, who have come from different villages in the district, have been studying and living under pathetic conditions. For the 230 students, from Classes 6 to 10, only five toilets have been constructed within the godown. P7

CHILDREN LIVE MEDIEVAL, TALIBAN LIFE: PANEL

Child rights body says 200 children in RT Nagar madrasa getting only Islamic edu

PURAN CHOUDHARY @ Bengaluru

THE National Commission for Protection of Child Rights (NCPCR) conducted a surprise inspection of an allegedly illegally run orphanage, Darul Uloom Sayyadiya Yatim Khana, at RT Nagar Post in Bengaluru on November 19. It revealed that around 200 children, kept in substandard conditions, did not have access to basic facilities like beds, recreational activities, TV or visits to a playground.

NCPCR claimed that the students were given only Islamic religious education and none was sent to a proper educational institute. The orphanage authorities, however, termed the claims false.

The inspection was conducted by an NCPCR team, which included Chairperson Priyank Kanoongo. In a letter to the chief secretary, the Commission pointed out that the orphanage was unregistered and demanded action under the Juvenile Justice Act. A copy was also marked to Police Commissioner Dayananda KA, Deputy Commissioner and District Magistrate to register an FIR.

Kanoongo posted on X, "These children are living a medieval Taliban life, this life is not written for them in the Constitution. Small children are very innocent and so scared that when they see the Maulvi coming, they all stand still, closing their eyes. They wake up at 3:30 am to study in Madrasa." The children have only short breaks for reading namaz during the day and otherwise are engaged in training in Islamic education, he added.

The official letter, accessed by TNIE, read, "The orphanage is not fulfilling the infrastructural requirements for accommodating such a large number of students. There were 5rooms of approximately 100 square feet and each room had 4 bunk beds for 8 children and 16 children slept on four bunk beds placed in the corridor. Around 150 children sleep in two big halls used for daily prayers."

Kanoongo claimed that the children stayed only at the mosque. "This orphanage, which has property worth crores of rupees, has a separate building in which a school is running but these children are not allowed there," he added.

Relief package for suburban rail to be on lines of BMRCL

S LALITHA @ Bengaluru

THE state government has finalised the Compensation and Resettlement Package (CRP) for families that are likely to be impacted by the Bengaluru Suburban Rail Project (BSRP). The package will be on similar lines as that of the Bangalore Metro Rail Corporation Limited (BMRCL), said sources at K-RIDE, which is implementing the Rs 15,767-crore project.

The 12-page CRP that has been approved, states, "The land to be acquired will be paid guidance value or market value of the land whichever is higher and market value of structures assessed by approved valuers, a 100% solatium on the above and 12% per annum additional market value."

Slum-dwellers would be given Rs 5 lakh as housing support grant, it said. Details on specific categories and the compensation plus the shifting allowance to be paid, and shifting allowance and one-time inconvenience allowance figure among them. For instance, an owner who loses his property and residential structure would be paid the following as shifting allowance: Up to 1,000 sq ft: Rs 25,000; 1,001 sq ft-1,500 sq ft: Rs 30,000; and more than 1,500 sq ft: Rs 35,000. The one-time inconvenience allowance payment would be

Rs 70,000, the package said.

A senior K-RIDE official said, "It is a very good package and on the lines of Bengaluru Metro." Almost 90% of the land to be utilised for BSRP will be provided by Indian Railways, and hence, the package that needs to be paid to private landowners who need to shift from their houses or hand over a part of it would be considerably less compared to BMRCL projects.

'Survey under way'

"The survey is presently being done on the exact number of properties and the individuals who will be affected. The package to be offered needs to be kept ready so that they can be compensated quickly and that has been completed," Special Deputy Commissioner (K-RIDE) DB Natesh told The New Indian Express.

Asked for specific details, Natesh said 40 houses were likely to be impacted at Jayaram Colony in Mathikere, which is a slum settlement. "We will be needing them for our Corridor-2 project (between Bennigenahalli and Chikkabanavara," he said. Work has already begun on this stretch.

In connection with the Corridor-4 stretch (Heelalige to Rajanagunte), there are 138 properties that could be impacted near K R Pura. "We cannot specifically give the compensation figure as this varies depending on whether it is revenue land, BDA land or if the land's Title is not in the individual's name and so on," the Special DC said.

Stop self-medication, min tells people

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

HEALTH Minister Dinesh Gundu Rao stressed the need to preserve the efficacy of existing antibiotics and preventing the spread of drug-resistant infections within healthcare facilities and communities. He also urged people to stop self-medication.

With the aim of creating awareness about antimicrobial resistance (AMR), Gundu Rao held a sensitisation workshop with health experts and officials in Bengaluru on Tuesday.

The health minister said that AMR is a phenomenon by which pathogens do not respond to medicines, making it hard to treat infections. It is the third-highest cause of death in India, affecting the poor disproportionately, he added.

AMR has also led to an increased mortality rate since even simple infections have become untreatable due to it. It was also highlighted that the patients are seen suffering from prolonged illnesses, leading to increased healthcare costs and a burden on the health system. With the AMR Awareness Week observed on November 18-24, he requested citizens to take antibiotics only when advised by a medical professional and complete the full course of medicine. Since the viral infection cases have increased, he asked citizens to avoid taking antibiotics for cold, flu, runny nose or other viral infections, as people have developed resistance to them due to overconsumption.

Bugs in hostel food irk BU students

ENS @ Bengaluru

OVER 650 post-graduation students at Bangalore University protested on Tuesday, against sub-standard food provided by VV hostel.

For weeks, students were complaining of poor-quality food being given to them. Videos of bugs, worms and insects in rice have surfaced. The protestors highlighted the negligence of the hostel warden. Despite multiple complaints, he did not take any action. Students demanded that he be suspended immediately. Higher Education Minister MC Sudhakar has instructed BU Vice-Chancellor Jayakara Shetty to take immediate action against the warden and cooks. Separately, over 100 students from Pre-University, Degree, and Engineering colleges protested at Freedom Park on Tuesday and demanded immediate distribution of scholarships.

Kambala organisers drop Brij Bhushan's name

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

FOLLOWING criticism over inviting former president of the Wrestling Federation Of India Brij Bhushan Sharan Singh for the Bengaluru Kambala, the Bengaluru Kambala Samithi has dropped the tainted MP's name from the event.

Although there were no reports about Singh's confirmation for participating in the event, where he was supposed to felicitate sportspersons, Samithi president and Puttur Congress MLA Ashok Kumar Rai is said to have decided to omit his name from the invite in the name of damage control.

"Bengaluru Kambala Samithi had not put his (Singh's) name in the invitation. Some organisation connected with the event wanted him to be a guest and had included his name. The MP in his letter has informed that he will not be available," Rai said.

Meanwhile, the Samithi is taking all measures to ensure a peaceful Kambala, which will have 175 pairs of buffalos participating in the race. The animals will arrive at Palace Grounds from Coastal Karnataka on Thursday.

Students talk reusable pads at Child Rights Parl

PURAN CHOUDHARY @ Bengaluru

OVER 70 students, two from each district in Karnataka, were at Vidhana Soudha on Tuesday to take part in the Child Rights Parliament and discuss issues faced by them in schools and their educational journeys. The students, who were scheduled to meet Chief Minister Siddaramaiah, were disappointed as the CM had other pressing commitments.

Captain Ganesh Karnik, former MLC and member of the Karnataka Legislative Forum for Child Rights, met the students and engaged them in a fruitful discussion.

Students raised questions such as the need to extend the Right To Education (RTE) up to the age of 18 years, instead of 14 years. The children urged the government to recognise children who are orphaned and provide them with appropriate scholarships to complete their education, without any caste or religious barriers.

Other issues such as the government scheme that provides free pads to menstruating girls should switch to sustainable, cotton pads. "We've read that burning plastic leads to greater levels of pollution, but in villages, people are burying them or burning pads so we want to request the government to take note of the issue," said one student.

EXPRESS ILLUSTRATION

Illegal liquor shops are found in high numbers in rural areas, leading to alcohol addiction in adults. "Children are beaten up and many parents don't even meet the basic amenities needed to raise children. Such children are under immense stress and cannot focus on education, many even take extreme steps and die by suicide," said Karnataka Child Rights Observatory (KCRO) and students at Vidhana Soudha, seeking immediate action from the government.

Other suggestions such as encouraging the use of millets in midday meals, proper sex education by professionals, stricter laws on child marriages and wider promotion of schemes related to children, were discussed. Members from UNICEF and KCRO will take up recommendations with the officials concerned.

PETER VIDAL

22ND November : A Moon-Venus pattern brings together the symbols of motherhood and femininity. So, a great day for women, then! But a bad day for men who reckon that to be aggressively masculine will always get them what they want. And that, in my opinion, is no bad thing!

ARIES (Mar 21 - Apr. 20)
It will be a rare Arien who is not deeply influenced by sentimental feelings for the past. Increasingly it is your home and family background which tug at your heartstrings. Give the maximum attention to financial matters, and don't accept amazing promises at face value.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 - May 21)
You may now hear from loved ones who are overseas or far away. Communications will also arrive before long from people from your past. Strange encounters will revive pleasant contacts and fond memories. It's all down to that emotional planet, Venus, which brings a gradual awakening to romantic possibilities.

GEMINI (May 22 - June 21)
Consider your situation carefully. In business matters, as in other areas, it may be you who is owed an apology. So, why don't you look at the past - and try to figure out the best solution? You'd also be wise to avoid undertaking any dubious commitments for the future!

CANCER (June 22 - July 23)
Planetary activity over the next few days will confirm what all sensitive people knew anyway - that the Cancerian vision is utterly remarkable in all respects. If you have creative goals on the go, put the emphasis on practical achievements - and let your imagination fly.

LEO (July 24 - Aug. 23)
Whatever you do, whatever you say, you won't be able to hide the fact that you're searching for something more meaningful in your day-to-day existence. You know that someone, somewhere, is sending you fond thoughts. It's nice to think that they're on your side even if they're a long way away.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 - Sept. 23)
There is plenty of space for your Virgoan qualities of efficiency and order. But if you start trying to dominate the situation and insist that everything is in its proper place and that others live up to their promises, you may be facing an uphill struggle.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 - Oct. 23)
Even more than in the past, it's vital to remember that Libra is the sign of balance. You occupy a pivotal role, standing at the fulcrum of everything that's happening. It's all quite a responsibility but, by next week, you'll be ready to take on any number of new commitments.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 - Nov. 22)
You share superb travel stars with a close partner. Short journeys are more likely to be for business, longer trips for pleasure. Careful organisation, though, is absolutely vital. And one other thing - partners have the best ideas, so listen carefully.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 - Dec. 22)
Your birth-sign is ruled by the optimistic planet, Jupiter, which largely accounts for some of your better qualities - your wisdom, for example. Your ability to see ahead is central to your current ambitions, but there's a social factor at work, and that means you're best off as part of a team.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23 - Jan. 20)
Deep down you should realise that you have more to gain than to lose from current personal disputes. You may even come to understand that criticism and differences of opinion are all for the best. And with Mercury still so positively placed, your intuitions will be right - at least, most of the time!

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 - Feb. 19)
Certain colleagues and associates naturally hope that you will run out of steam, perhaps because you've worn them out over the last six months. If so, I'm afraid their hope is a vain one. Your ideas, especially at work, are likely to be even more lively than usual.

PISCES (Feb. 20 - Mar 20)
Many people around you, both at home and at work, seem to be caught in a fog of uncertainty or confusion. You are well used to such conditions and are therefore ideally situated to extract the maximum advantage. It looks to me as if you will be your usual, sensitive self.

FOUR COMMITTEES TO PROBE HOPE FARM JN ELECTROCUTION

Report within 2 weeks; Energy Minister George promises action against guilty, and measures to prevent such accidents in future

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

FOUR committees have been set up to investigate the Hope Farm electrocution that claimed the lives of a mother and toddler, Energy Minister KJ George has said.

It may be recalled that 23-year-old Soundarya and her nine-month-old daughter Suviksha had died of electrocution on Sunday morning near Hope Farm after stepping on a live wire.

"The first committee consists of Bangalore Electricity Supply Company (BESCOM) officials and is an internal committee. The second one is led by the police, whom we have given free hand to act. The third committee will be by the Electrical Inspectorate that will probe into the technical aspects of the incident," George said.

He added that the fourth committee will be an independent one which will consist of S Sumanth, retired director, Karnataka Power Transmission Corporation Ltd, BV Girish, Chief Engineer (Electricity), RT & R&D, Prabhakar, Joint Director of Central Power Research Institute, and G Ravikumar Deputy Chief Electrical Inspector (Bengaluru East). "This committee has been given the task to carry out impartial probe into the incident," he said. An order issued later stated that the above committee must submit its report within two weeks.

"The incident is peculiar as there were no rains, no tree branch falling on the line, then how did the feeder snapped? Despite snapping, it held power. Why didn't the snapped wire find earthing? The committees will probe into all these aspects and submit their reports," George said, adding that the government will take action against the guilty and take steps so that such accidents don't repeat in the future.

Loosely hanging power lines and OFCs are a common sight in Bengaluru city

Case booked under relevant section: Top cop

ENS@ Bengaluru

BENGALURU City Police Commissioner B Dayananda said that a relevant section of the IPC has been registered in the Hope Farm electrocution case.

The investigating officer has to book the case as prescribed in law. Since the death was due to negligence on part of the officials concerned, they have been booked, he said. He further added that the police are waiting for the report from the electrical inspectorate and FSL as the case requires technical assistance. "The case has to be booked as prescribed in the law. I understand the gravity, my sympathies to the family. It is an extremely unfortunate incident...," he said. The Kadugodi police have registered a case under section 304A of IPC (causing death by negligence) against five BESCOM officials.

NHRC SERVES NOTICE, SEEKS REPORT IN 6 WEEKS

The National Human Rights Commission (NHRC) issued notice to the state government on the Hope Farm electrocution issue. "NHRC has taken suo motu cognisance of a media report and issued notices to the Chief Secretary and Director General of Police calling for a report within six weeks," said NHRC on Tuesday. NHRC observed that the contents of the news report, if true, raise a serious issue of violation of human rights, and indicates negligence by Bescom. The report should include the status of FIR, action taken against officials responsible for lapses and compensation, if any, granted to the kin of the deceased, the commission said.

15 DAYS TO CLEAR OFCs FROM ELECTRIC POLES: GEORGE

Energy Minister KJ George said that 15 days will be given to companies that have put up Optical Fibre Cables (OFC) over Bescom's electric poles to remove the same. George said, "Bescom can carry out OFC removal drives only if the cables are passing through its electric poles. Only BBMP can take action against unauthorised OFC cables. BBMP has made provision for the OFC cables to be taken underground via ducts. On the stretches wherever there is a provision, overhead OFCs should be taken underground, else they will be cut." He said that an alternative for the OFC cables should be provided at all the places.

BESCOM NOW BLAMES RATS FOR TRAGEDY

Bescom officials who have been blaming BBMP's concrete footpaths that it didn't allow earthing of the snapped wire, have added a rat to their blame list. "According to our preliminary inquiry, at 3.50 am on November 19, at Audambara Apartment in Maithri Layout located near Hope Farm Junction, the connection tripped in the LBS (load break switch) due to a rat's entry into the distribution transformer box. Three fuses installed in front of the apartment went off, line to the station got tripped and 11 kv feeder wire got snapped at the weak point near Hope Farm Junction," said Bescom MD Mahantesh Bilagi.

'Escape' Karthik, who hoodwinked cops thrice, held with two associates

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

A 33-year-old habitual thief who has over 85 theft cases against him and who is also known for escaping from judicial as well as police custody has been arrested by the Govindarajanagar police.

The arrested identified as Karthik alias 'Escape' Karthik is a resident of Kothanur and has committed thefts across South Karnataka, Tamil Nadu and Andhra Pradesh. Having studied till Class 6, Karthik started committing theft when he was aged 16. He has been active in crime since 2005. The police have also arrested his associates, Dileep, 23, and Sanjay, 24. The police recovered valuables worth Rs 70 lakh from them.

Karthik has committed thefts at residences in Basaveshwaranagar, KP Agrahara, Kamakshipalya and other areas. He has 18 arrest warrants pending against him and had escaped thrice from police custody. He had once escaped from the Parappana Agrahara Central Prison in 2007 by hiding in a vegetable van that had come to the prisons to deliver vegetables and since then his alias name is 'Escape'. Three years later, he had managed to escape from the custody of the JB Nagar police when he was taken for a spot mahazar (recreation of the crime scene) but was caught again later. In his very first attempt in 2005, he had managed to steal Rs 10 lakh in cash from a house in Hennur which transformed him to be a professional thief. Initially Karthik's reflexes were good as was good at running, jumping and climbing and that helped him to commit burglary. His girlfriend's brother had stabbed his leg and he can no longer run like before.

Karthik and his associates go around the city on bikes looking for locked houses. After identifying the locked houses, they strike at night. The accused, after the theft, pledge the gold at gold financing firms and spend money to lead a lavish lifestyle. The police are also initiating action against the gold financing firm for receiving the stolen gold.

HC allows 12 couples to opt for surrogacy

ENS @ Bengaluru

OBSERVING that not allowing surrogacy through donor gametes as a condition in the consent form for seeking permission for surrogacy is contrary to the Surrogacy (Regulation) Act, the Karnataka High Court permitted 12 couples to opt for surrogacy using donor female gametes. The majority of them are from Bengaluru, and a couple each from Hassan, Kolar and Dharwad.

The couples challenged a notification issued by the Union government on March 14, 2023 amending Clause (1) (d) Form No.2 of the Surrogacy Regulations, disallowing surrogacy. They sought permission to have a child through surrogacy.

Justice M Nagaprasanna partly allowed a batch of petitions filed by 13 couples this year. As the case was pending, a 37-year-old woman-petitioner passed away.

The court said the condition of one of the petitioners as depicted by medical practitioners clearly indicates the necessity of surrogacy, which would mean that the petitioners are all entitled to opt for surrogacy under the Rule. The petitioners' counsel argued that the condition of every one of the intending mothers demonstrates that it is impossible for them to conceive naturally through IVF, or any other method and are left with no choice, but to bear a child through surrogacy. Several provisions of the Surrogacy (Regulation) Act, 2021 and the Assisted Reproductive Technology (Regulation) Act, 2021 permit surrogacy on medical conditions but the notification takes it away, he argued.

DyCM, Vokkaliga leaders urge CM to reject caste census report

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

IN a move that could put the Congress government in Karnataka in a tight spot, Deputy Chief Minister DK Shivakumar has joined leaders from his Vokkaliga community in demanding Chief Minister Siddaramaiah to reject the 'socio-economic and educational' survey or the caste census report.

While the CM has been maintaining that he would accept the H Kantharaju Commission report and implement its recommendations, the DyCM signed a memorandum by the Rajya Vokkaligara Sangha and Rajya Vokkaligara Meesalathi Horata Samiti, Karnataka, that termed yet-to-be submitted report as flawed, incomplete, unscientific and irrelevant.

The memorandum addressed to the CM was submitted to his office on November 15. Apart from Shivakumar, it is also signed by many senior Congress, BJP and JDS leaders, including former prime minister HD Deve Gowda, former CMs SM Krishna, HD Kumaraswamy and DV Sadandanda Gowda, Union Minister Shobha Karandlaje, Leader of Opposition in the Assembly R Ashoka and Vokkaliga seer Nirmalanandananatha Swamiji.

State Backward Classes Commission Chairman Jayaprakash Hegde is expected to submit the report to the government before his tenure ends this month. The survey was commissioned during Siddaramaiah's first stint as CM (2013-18) and he had criticised the previous government for not accepting the report. Now, with the DyCM and several ministers demanding him to reject it, Siddaramaiah may have to reconsider his stand on the report.

In its scathing remarks against the report, the community leaders stated that data was not collected by visiting all houses, and as per media reports in 2015 those involved in the survey work allegedly paid Rs 5 to Rs 10 to school students to fill up the forms. It is also learned that as per the survey report, the state's population is 5.40 crore, but as per the Aadhaar details the population is 6.90 crore. It will be an injustice to all communities if the government accepts such an incomplete report, the memorandum stated.

The memorandum also stated that in the absence of an original draft of the report, there are several apprehensions and it is difficult to trust the report. They also questioned the commission's power to conduct caste census or census as it can only be done by the central government and not by any state agency. "The State Government has no power to conduct a caste census and Kantharaju commission report is illegal," the memorandum stated. They urged the CM to direct the current chairman of the commission not to give any report to the government. If the government feels it necessary, social and educational survey can be done again in a transparent, scientific, and as per the law, the memorandum urged.

Satish Jarkiholi will become CM, predicts Saundatti MLA

BELAGAVI: Amid instructions from the Congress high command to state leaders to not comment on the issue of change of leadership, Saundatti MLA Vishwas Vaidya has claimed that PWD Minister Satish Jarkiholi will become the chief minister in the coming days. Vaidya, a close aide of Satish, made this remark at a programme of Karnataka Rakshana Vedile at Yaragatti near here on Sunday. "Like how the sun rises daily, Satish Jarkiholi becoming CM is also guaranteed. It is 100%. He is growing as an emerging leader of North Karnataka cutting across party lines. Hence, he will become the CM for sure," the Congress MLA said. Vaidya's remark has received sharp reactions within the Congress. Revenue Minister Krishna Byre Gowda in Ballari said that the Congress top brass will decide on everything, including any change of guard. "Until then, we should stress on giving good administration. We already have a CM selected by our MLAs. People expect us to work. So, it is not good if we discuss issues such as change of guard. A few are making statements as per their desire... it is freedom of speech," Gowda added. MLA Vaidya, however, defended his statement again on Monday. "Satish Jarkiholi himself has claimed that he is a contender for the CM's post in 2028. He has identified me and elected me to the Assembly. He is capable of becoming CM," he told reporters. ENS

'Speak to forums to reduce protests outside Soudha'

BENGALURU: To keep a check on protests outside Suvarna Vidhana Soudha in Belagavi during the upcoming winter session of legislature that could disrupt the proceedings, Legislative Council Chairman Basavaraj Horatti has written to CM Siddaramaiah and his Cabinet ministers. In the letter, Horatti has urged the CM, Education Minister Madhu Bangarappa, Agriculture Minister N Chaluvarayaswamy and Revenue Minister Krishna Byre Gowda to speak to those planning to hold protests. "The precious time of the House gets wasted because of the protests and there is a need to resolve it before they gather to protest," Horatti wrote. "The ministers concerned should call the leaders of these organisations and try to resolve the issues so that they need not have to protest at the venue," he said, adding that the Chief Minister should convey this message to his cabinet.Horatti said if protests outside the Soudha reduce, then the legislators and ministers can discuss several burning issues. ENS

₹800cr released for drought work: CM

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

CHIEF Minister Siddaramaiah on Tuesday said that the State Government has started drought relief works by releasing Rs 800 crore to the deputy commissioners' accounts.

Speaking to media persons in Bengaluru, the CM said the money released to the DC accounts is being used to provide drinking water and procure fodder for cattle. The state government is yet to get any assistance from the Centre despite submitting a memorandum seeking compensation, the CM reiterated. The State Government has declared 216 out of 236 taluks in Karnataka as drought-hit. Inter-Ministerial Central Team had visited the state to assess the situation.

The CM refuted former CM and state JDS president HD Kumaraswamy's allegations that drought relief works have not reached people. Kumaraswamy has no information about the relief works, he added.

Meanwhile, Deputy Chief Minister D K Shivakumar said Kumaraswamy is becoming a laughing stock with his baseless allegations. "Kumaraswamy is casting aspersions without any basis. People are watching all this and are laughing at him. It won't do him any good," he said.

The DyCM said let Kumaraswamy go to Kanakapura constituency and ask people, including his own party workers, if Shivakumar is screening any immoral movies in his theatres. "If the people hold me guilty, I will retire from politics. If you are unable to prove your allegations, what will you do?" the DyCM challenged responding to allegations made by Kumaraswamy.

Replying to a query on the electrocution of a mother and a child in Bengaluru, he said it was a serious issue and the government was taking necessary action. The government is considering switching from open wires to concealed cables, he added.

BJP TO PUT PRESSURE ON GOVT IN SESSION TO RELEASE CROP LOSS AID

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Kalaburagi

LEADER of Opposition in the Assembly R Ashoka on Tuesday said that the BJP will put pressure on the Congress State Government in the upcoming winter session of the legislature to provide crop loss compensation to drought-hit farmers of Karnataka.

Ashoka was in Kalaburagi as part of BJP's state-wide drought study tour. He visited agriculture fields in Srinivasa Saradagi village of Kalaburagi taluk and Kadaganchi village of Aland taluk.

"Farmers across Karnataka have complained to the BJP team that they have not received even a single Rupee as compensation. Farmers want the government to prioritise distribution of compensation instead of focussing on freebies," Ashoka said. Ashoka will be visiting Bidar on Wednesday.The BJP leader told Chief Minister Siddaramaiah not to blame the Centre and mislead people on crop compensation. "Let the CM inform people of the real facts," he said.

Ashoka said that when he was the revenue minister, the government led by Basavaraj Bommai released double the amount than prescribed in NDRF norms. "The Centre will release the compensation as per NDRF norms and the State Government has to add some amount to help the affected farmers," he said. NDRF norms were framed when Manmohan Singh was the PM and the amount was enhanced after Narendra Modi became the PM, he added.

"Instead of blaming the Centre, let the State Government release money for compensation or let it tell the people that it has become bankrupt," the BJP leader said, adding that the government announced the guarantees just to win the elections. He said the BJP would put the government on the mat in the upcoming session. "The Congress claims that the BJP has no issues to target the government. The Congress fails to understand that the party itself has given many weapons to fix it in the Assembly. Apart from crop loss compensation, we also raise the issue of 'cash for transfer' scam and removing the portrait of Veer Savarkar from the Council, among other issues, he said. Commenting on the recent attack on BJP leader Manikanta Rathod, Ashoka said, "Gunda culture has increased after the Congress came to power this May." He also said that if the Congress touches the RSS, it is nothing but digging its own grave.

Karnataka HC orders inquiry against Special Public Prosecutor

THIS was after advocate KBK Swamy, representing the seer, drew the attention of the court on the conduct of the PO, including issuing a non-bailable warrant and sending the pontiff into judicial custody on Monday in conflict with the HC orders.

"The PO, in an attempt of gross judicial overreach, in a tearing hurry, contrary to the orders passed by High Court and the co-ordinate bench, issues NBW and directs the accused to be taken into judicial custody. The police immediately act and house the accused in judicial custody. All these things happened when the matter was moved before High Court calling in question the memo filed by the SPP," the judge said, directing the registry to place this order before Chief Justice Prasanna B Varale for perusal.

The High Court said sensationalising an issue should not become the order of the day, particularly if the concerned courts are hearing such cases. The courts are trite governed by constitutional morality and not public morality. This principle was also given a go-by by the PO which appears to be an attempt to remain in the limelight of a sensational issue. The PO disobeyed the orders passed by HC in a manner that would become contempt of the court on the face of it, the High Court said.

The High Court noted that SPP for POCSO cases filed a 'frivolous' memo ignoring HC orders before the PO to issue an NBW to the accused, saying the accused is not appearing before the court and there is no direction of the HC to appear through video conference. The contents of the memo, on the face of it, are mischievous. The memo suffers from want of bonafide, as the SPP cannot feign ignorance of the orders passed by the HC, the high court said, directing an inquiry on SPP's conduct.

Pacifying sulking Lingayat netas in BJP daunting task for BYV

DEVARAJ B HIREHALLI
@ Bengaluru

NEW state BJP president BY Vijayendra has a daunting task of taking along with him the party leaders hailing from different sects of the Veerashaiva-Lingayat community, who are unhappy with his elevation.

Prominent among them are former union minister and MLA Basanagouda Patil Yatnal of the Panchamasali sect, and former minister V Somanna, who was in the race for the post of state unit president.

When the BJP high command favoured Vijayendra, Yatnal expressed his resentment and demanded that a leader from North Karnataka be made president of the state unit.

After Union Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman and party's national general secretary Dushyanth Kumar Gautham, who were here recently as central observers to select the Leader of Opposition, met him, Yatnal said, "He (Vijayendra) need not come to me and I do not want to talk to him as I have informed the party high command about the adjustment politics (in Karnataka)." He targeted Vijayendra, who met all top leaders of the party, but not him.

"Yatnal's statement is being misinterpreted. BJP is a national party and its high command decided on my appointment after considering the suggestions given by state unit leaders. Yatnalji might have stated it with some pain. He (Yatnal) might have brought some problems to the notice of the central leaders. We will sit together and resolve them," Vijayendra said on Sunday at KR Pete in Mandya district.

Although Somanna did not issue any statement on Vijayendra's appointment, he maintained that only "time will decide".

As a show of strength, Somanna is organising a mega event at Siddaganga Mutt, a prominent Lingayat mutt, in Tumakuru in the first week of December without inviting Vijayendra.

In March 2022, Vijayendra organised a rally to mark the 115th birth anniversary of Sri Shivakumara Swamiji at Siddaganga Mutt in which Union Home Minister Amit Shah took part. He ignored Somanna and tried to establish himself as a leader of the community. That might be one of the factors that went in his favour to get the state unit president's post. By doing this, Vijayendra managed to send a message that the community is also with him, according to some political analysts. Despite Somanna's appeal not to take part in the rally organised by Vijayendra, many seers from the community attended it. Vijayendra met most of the seers from the community as soon as he became the state unit president.

However, some leaders, including Tumakuru Lok Sabha member GS Basavaraju, are with Somanna. When Vijayendra visited Siddaganga Mutt recently, he sought the help of Basavaraju to patch up with Somanna, according to a source.

Some leaders of the community, however, feel that why should they accept Vijayendra as their leader like his father BS Yediyurappa.

Surjewala meets Siddu, DKS over appointments to boards and corpns

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

SIX months after the Karnataka elections, there is intense pressure on the state party leadership to make appointments to Boards and Corporations, which are pending.

AICC General Secretary Randeep Surjewala, who was incharge of Madhya Pradesh which voted on November 17, flew into Bengaluru and held lengthy meetings with party colleagues on this issue.

He held a meeting with Chief Minister Siddaramaiah and party president DK Shivakumar, who are said to have their own lists of followers and supporters to be appointed to Boards and Corporations.

There are over 30 prized boards and about there are about 60 boards and corporations which are not so sought after. CM Siddaramaiah told the media that they are likely to make an announcement immediately. He also spoke of two sets of aspirants -- one being MLAs and MLCs and the other being party workers.

Sources said there is pressure to accommodate both legislators and party workers, and that about 40-50 appointments will be made, including 25 legislators and the remaining party workers. If the meeting is inconclusive, they will hold another meeting next Tuesday and make an announcement before the Belagavi assembly session. The legislators will be seeking plum posts on boards and corporations while workers will have to be content with whatever is left.

After certain opposition leaders claimed that 45 MLAs were in touch with them, and another leader claimed that the government would not last long after the Lok Sabha polls, there is pressure on the party to accommodate a number of MLAs. The party would also been seeking to appoint MLCs who are not too happy that none of them has been accommodated in the ministry. The calculation is 10 per cent of the total number of legislators -- 225 MLAs plus 75 legislators from the council.

Siddaramaiah and DyCM Shivakumar, who have been pressured by partymen and legislators to go ahead with the appointments for the past few weeks, held preliminary talks with the leadership. While the party is working full throttle to make these appointments, there is concern that if some are not suitably accommodated, they should not turn rebel, but is a risk the party has to take.

Can meet summer power demand: Min

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

"KARNATAKA'S energy department is all set to handle power demand for the months of February, March and April, which would be around 15,500MW (megawatts) to 16,500MW. Seven hours of uninterrupted power will be supplied to the farmers' irrigation pumpsets (IP) in summer," Energy Minister K J George told reporters here on Tuesday.

"Though power demand has gone up in the state compared to last year, there are no power outages. The demand for power is expected to cross 300 million units and measures have been taken by the authorities to meet this demand," George said,.

Sharing details of preparedness for the ensuing summer, Additional Chief Secretary of the energy department Gaurav Gupta said, "With the implementation of Section 11 of the Electricity Act, we will get 2,200MW -- 1,200MW from private power generators, 600MW from Uttar Pradesh, 300MW from Punjab and 150MW from the Kudgi power plant in Vijayapura."

"A bid has been placed for the import of 2.5 lakh tonnes of coal, and this additional quantum will be available for Karnataka State Gencos (electricity generation companies). By blending domestic coal with imported coal, thermal generators can generate an additional 600MW," he added.

Further, Gupta said the Yelahanka gas plant, with a capacity of 370MW, will start generation soon and a request has been placed with the central government for supply of 600MW.

Cyber fraud victim in Saudi jail returns home

CHANDRASHEKAR, a resident of Kadaba in Dakshina Kannada, who was imprisoned after becoming victim to a cyber fraud in Saudi Arabia for 11 months, returned home on Monday. He was working for a private company in Saudi Arabia since 2022.

He had purchased a new cellphone and a SIM at a shop in Riyadh by submitting his thumb impression for the same.

"I received a direct message on my cellphone and I opened the link sent which was in Arabic. I didn't know that it was a message sent by fraudsters. After several months, I was called by a nearby police station after a woman lodged a complaint that she lost SAR 22,000 from her account. Later, I came to know that when I opened the link sent to my phone, the fraudsters got access to my ID credentials and bank details and created a fake account in my name.

They siphoned off SAR 22,000 which is approximately ₹4.9 lakh from complainant's account and transferred it to the fake account created. I was arrested on December 20, 2022 and after spending seven months in prison. I got help from a few social activists and got shifted to station jail. The company where I worked, social activists and friends including Shridhar Gowda helped me a lot. Unfortunately, I didnt get any support from the Indian Embassy officials," Chandrashekar told TNIE.

Chandrashekar was released a few days ago after he paid the amount to the complainant and also a fine. He left for India and reached Mangaluru via Mumbai on Monday night.

Parents and children recently wrote to the school administration to finish the construction work. Villagers are now planning to complain to CM Siddaramaiah against officials for neglecting the needs of students.

Ramappa M, father of one of the students and an activist, said, "My daughter studies in Class 7. Both girls and boys at the school are studying under terrible conditions."

He said, "The classes are conducted in seven godown rooms and they turn into residential spaces once the classes get over for the day. Though the government is expected to provide the basic necessities, the students do not even have beds to sleep on. The building for the residential school was sanctioned in 2019. Construction work started, but stopped abruptly. Drinking water and toilets are major issues. I have requested the administration to complete the building soon and shift the students."

An official from the Ballari district administration told TNIE, "We instructed the contractors to finish the construction soon."

AP files petition in SC against bail to Naidu

Vijayawada: The AP government on Tuesday moved the Supreme Court against a High Court order granting regular bail to TDP chief N Chandrababu Naidu in the Skill Development Corporation scam case. Seeking direction to set aside the High Court verdict, the state government said that the accused (Naidu) is an "influential person" and "has ensured that two of his key associates (including a government servant) have already fled the Country. "The accused is therefore clearly obstructing the conduct of the investigation and, therefore, ought not to be granted bail," it said.

THE Enforcement Directorate on Tuesday carried out searches at the residences and offices of former MP and Chennur Assembly Congress candidate G Vivek Venkataswamy and his brother Vinod, who is contesting from Bellampalli Assembly.

ED sources said that the agency registered ECRI based on an FIR filed by the Saifabad police over the transactions between Visaka Industries Limited and Vigilance Security Services with Rs 8 crore being sent from HDFC Bank, Begumpet Branch.

The agency suspects that the transactions were related to the Assembly elections and that Vivek Venkataswamy tried to channel the money for the constituencies.

ED officials conducted raids on the residences at Somajiguda, Chennur and Mancherial and office locations at Begumpet.

INDIAN EXPRESS IS NOT AN INDUSTRY. IT IS A MISSION.

AVOID COST OVERRUNS TO ACHIEVE STRONG INFRA-LED GROWTH

IT is heartening to note that recent projections for the Indian economy have been positive, with both business pundits and sales figures indicating strong growth and muted inflation. A recent Goldman Sachs report said that though India's real GDP growth rate is likely to moderate marginally to 6.3 percent in 2024 from 6.4 percent estimated for 2023, economic activity will remain resilient through 2024. High institutional spends, a driver of growth, will be a tale of two halves: pre-elections, government spending will dominate; post elections, private investment is expected to reaccelerate. Macroeconomic data seems to support this projection. For instance, sale of commercial vehicles, an important barometer of economic activity, is expected to be 30 percent higher this financial year. This is driven by higher sales of heavy vehicles, a demand which in turn has been triggered by an enhanced freight movement through the country.

The next few years can see transformational growth riding on the government's spending on roads, airports and cities. Analytics firm Crisil says India is expected to spend ₹143 lakh crore on infrastructure over the seven years up to 2030, more than twice the ₹67 lakh crore spent since 2017. The firm has forecast a GDP growth of 6.7 percent through 2030-31—and painted a picture of India escaping poverty to become the fastest-growing large economy and a middle-income country with the per capita income rising from $2,500 now to $4,500 by 2031.

Infrastructure-led growth gives a strong foundation to modern transformation, provides jobs and stokes all-round demand. However, there may be many a slip between the cup and the lip. As Goldman Sachs itself admits, money will be scarce as "elevated headline inflation will prevent the central bank from monetary easing before October next year". Rapid infrastructure-led growth—like what we have seen in China recently and in Japan after the Second World War—depends on high performance standards. For instance, heavy cost-overruns due to delays can stall important projects. A recent statistics ministry report showed that 411 large infra projects were hit by cost overruns totaling a humungous ₹4.3 lakh crore. Where is the additional money going to come from? Further, of the total 1,788 projects monitored in October, as many as 837 had been delayed. Close monitoring and completion are the watchwords if these optimistic growth forecasts are to be realised.

SORT BENGALURU POWER CABLES TO SAVE LIVES

DEATH by electrocution on Bengaluru's roads is becoming all too common. A young woman and her nine-month-old baby, who were charred after the mother stepped on a live wire trailing on the pavement, are the latest examples of the menace. Citizens, shaken by the sight of burning bodies by the road in the techies' hub Whitefield, are furious with the administration for its apathy towards malfunctioning infrastructure. Other similar incidents include a university student suffering burns after a Bangalore Electricity Supply Company (Bescom) pole crashed and a high-voltage wire fell on her, and a father-daughter duo dying of burns when a transformer exploded on to their vehicle. Adding to these dangers are cables hanging from poles, trees and walls, and strung across streets. In the past seven years, around 750 people have died and over 550 have been injured in accidents, according to data provided by Bescom.

Civic authorities generally dismiss such tragedies as hazards of urban living. No one—neither the electricity company nor the government—takes responsibility for them. The latest deaths are being attributed to a "technical glitch" where power continued to flow through the snapped wire though it is supposed to stop and how concrete pavements are not conducive to earthing. Rats are also being blamed for tripping the power line. Bescom is attempting to pass the buck to the Bruhat Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike (BBMP) for failing to place the cables underground. In effect, no one is responsible. Those who attempt to sue civic agencies get trapped in unending legal tangles.

Numerous complaints against Bescom's infrastructure have come to nought. The high court, hearing a petition on the dangers of electrical infrastructure on pavements, had ordered their removal. Earlier this year, Bescom told the court that out of 5,784 transformers, only 1,033 remained to be shifted. The company is also said to have placed almost 6,600 km of high-tension lines underground, out of an estimated 7,033 km. Underground cabling is bound to reduce accidents, besides reducing chances of tripping and placing ugly infrastructure out of sight. The government, which is playing up its Brand Bengaluru project, should first pay attention to providing safe public spaces for its citizens, especially during the monsoons, when electrocutions and drownings are almost expected. Life ought not to be so cheap in a city that boasts of global aspirations.

QUICK TAKE

BAR MISLEADING PATANJALI ADS

THE judiciary has stepped in where the executive faltered. The Supreme Court on Tuesday reprimanded Patanjali Ayurved for misleading ads with dubious claims of 'cure'; the justices warned the company it would be fined ₹1 crore for each false ad. This comes weeks after the government tried to remove a five-year-old rule for checking misleading AYUSH ads. The drug controller general asked for a new checking mechanism before the rule's removal. Patanjali is a serial offender, as statements by the advertising council in 2017, Indian Medical Association in 2021, Uttarakhand government in 2022 and the Centre this year show. It is time to stop playing with people's health.

The current regime prefers standardisation over plurality. A trusteeship of nature and culture is missing. We need other ideas to address development and the Anthropocene

LEAVE BROAD BRUSH AND USE DIVERSE COLOURS OF INDIA

SHIV VISVANATHAN
Social scientist associated with the Compost Heap, a group researching alternative imaginations

SOUMYADIP SINHA

TIME has a strange way of empowering or disempowering regimes. It provides the metaphors, the grand images of a regime. For example, the current regime of Narendra Modi moves like a juggernaut of time, representing huge acts of symbolic consolidation. It is not just that the Congress as a party appears anachronistic but that the BJP sees itself as a cadre rectifying time and speeding up history, bringing justice to a tortured past. But 'rectifying history' is only the first step in regime consolidation. The BJP has added two new scenarios to strengthen the process. The first is the revitalised idea of development encapsulated in the G20 model. The second is the civics of sustainability that combines corporate and voluntarist strategies. Tied together as a composite strategy, it sought to solidify the regime. The coming election is already seen as a fait accompli of the BJP era. In an extrapolative, linear sense, the BJP sees the future as a repetition of the recent past.

Yet, as one watches in anticipation, the canvas of time suddenly seems to have become problematic for the BJP. What appeared tactical in the first phase suddenly seems rudimentary and reductionist. Take history. At a time when history is becoming plural, emphasising the marginal and subaltern, the BJP is becoming an archetype of the 19th century model of the nation-state. There is little sense of dialogue or plurality. While Indian nationalism created a plurality of time and scripts, the BJP standardised it into a monolithic, mono-lingual model called the nation-state.

If the nation-state is standardised, so is the idea of the future. While the regime waxes eloquent on a deprived past, it becomes monologic about its sense of the future. The future becomes a linear extrapolative process without a sense of alternative imaginations. As a friend commented, the BJP projects Lutyens' Delhi as its own future. One can hardly see or imagine a Dalit city or a tribal alternative to official development. The official language of time creates brands around governmental words like 'sustainability' and 'development'. But sustainable development is a narrow corporate concept strategised to keep capitalist-industrial development alive. Sustainability hardly represents a rethinking of nature and is even less about diversity.

A trusteeship of nature and culture is missing from the BJP's official categories. By making time linear and by bypassing alternatives, the BJP's narratives of alternatives have become clichéd and predictable. At a time when tribal and alternative movements are celebrating plurality and in the process commanding global attention, the current regime plays custodian of monologic development. Its ecological record, especially in the Himalayas, is worrying. The regime has little sense of the Anthropocene when we as a civilisation should have revived Earth as sacred. The regime enacts its sense of consumer capital. The entire thesaurus of official terms such as sustainability and development has become banal.

As we explore the implications of these official terms, we sense a backstage of violence around them. There is a conviviality between official policy and violence. The term 'banalisation of violence' was used by philosopher Hannah Arendt to describe the behaviour of Adolf Eichmann. Eichmann, she claimed, was a clear cliché. Modi created a variant of this for his own actions after the Gujarat violence. He emphasised that violence was a routine ritual used by the perpetrators of bureaucracy to create a new normal. Victims of genocide were only seen as citizens if they accepted violence as a wider call for development.

The logic of the regime goes further as it ignores the metaphysics of the Anthropocene. Here, it is not the capitalist or the development expert we are focusing on but the human self as she or he ruthlessly damages the Earth. Anthropocene labels the period when human intervention has devastated Earth as an ecosystem. Time is not a linear phase here but ecological and geological, calling for a different imagination. We must think cosmically. We need to provide an individual or civilisational response to the Anthropocene. Instead, the Anthropocene has turned into a nationalist nightmare. The current India has little to do with the new idea of trusteeship of the Earth even though Gandhi was one of the original innovators of the idea. Our civilisation empties out as the regime becomes a goose-stepping nation-state. Restrictive time becomes impoverished time with little sense of flexibility in the future.

As a monologic idea of top-down development, the current national regime has little to offer in terms of diversity or plurality. Development merely becomes a technical timetable with managers who have little to say about the ethics of trusteeship or plurality. It is ironic that India, which had a genius for cosmic and civilisational time, has rendered it into a militarised uniform.

Today, when we talk about the opposition, we need to locate it in civilisational time and not in short-run politics. We need a sense of seasonal time. Time and nature are two ingredients we have impoverished. The opposition must go beyond the provincialism of party politics and dream of a trusteeship of the Earth for a few billion years.

Gandhi's idea of Swaraj and Swadeshi guarantees both nature and diversity along with their linguistic consequences. Time literally provides a new framework for ethics. It creates a new commons of time. The model of the innovation chain accounts very little for the cost of obsolescence and memory or museumised time. An impoverishment of time and erasure of plurality becomes the first step to triage and obsolescence. We need to playfully invent cosmic time and not make historical time punitive. We need to summon creation myths and make historical time open to multiple interpretations. By doing so, we recover the imagination of a plural democracy.

What we need most today is a plurality that can dream new imaginaries, creating a variety of narratives. It is time India playfully redeems the myths and categories of a democracy. We need to re-summon the sense of diversity in the folklore and everydayness of the country. In a powerful and literate way, folklore, seasonal and cosmic time becomes an answer to the provinciality of the development discourse. It requires a new metaphysics, a playful sense of translation. A new acceptance of the Bhakti movement, where the sacred and secular and the cosmopolitan and vernacular combine to create new conversations and more humane ideas of the future.

NEED TO THINK INSIDE THE BOX FOR GOVERNANCE SOLUTIONS

MITUL JHAVERI
Technology and public policy consultant, Union health ministry

SHUBHAM SINGH
Consultant, Union health ministry

EFFICIENT and public-oriented governance needs constant innovation, new ideas and technology. When the 21st century is throwing up newer challenges, innovation is increasingly becoming important for governments worldwide. In this fast-changing world, we need more than the existing ways of developing solutions for increasingly complex problems concerning the public. Innovation in the government will require keeping up with the pace of change, promoting creativity and discipline, technological investments, and fostering learning.

Innovative thinking is a mindset that should permeate the whole government and its various departments to address long-term public and governance issues more efficiently. Currently, government administrators are so busy firefighting everyday issues that they seldom get the time to think about creating innovative solutions or addressing long-term issues in new ways. In order to tackle this, the 'thinking and innovative solutions' part is outsourced to consulting firms and young professionals.

However, there is a problem with this outsourcing approach as both consultants and young professionals may lack a nuanced understanding of public administration. Government administrators, on the other hand, have a better understanding of issues and challenges as a result of their rich experience of working in the system. This forces us to ask how we can build a space and an institutional mechanism in the government to experiment and innovate within, where government administrators, young professionals, industry and academia can work together.

At present, we have ministry and sector-specific think tanks which are tasked with developing technical standards, manuals, and evaluating programs. While they are doing an excellent job with their expertise, we need both a vertical structure and a horizontal structure such as an innovation lab, which cuts across programmes and departments and can work across silos. Provided an enabling environment, innovation labs can scan and identify critical issues, priorities and tasks. They can develop ideas that impact these areas. They can experiment, prototype and finally, through an institutional mechanism, will work with government administrators to drive systemic change.

These innovation labs will be anchored to specific problems and missions and should have multidisciplinary teams comprising product managers, social scientists, sectoral experts, government administrators, young public policy professionals, operations experts, technologists, and even retired administrators who have great institutional memory. They can be tasked with designing behavioural nudges, undertaking process re-engineering, building technological solutions, analysing data systems and existing data for sense-making, designing service-delivery mechanisms, and building knowledge management systems and mechanisms to engage with citizens, among others.

EXPRESS

> The government outsources work to consultancies and young professionals. But government officers know the nuances of administration better. Government innovation labs can bring together the best of talents and ideas from all sectors, as was done for UPI

These labs will also serve as partnership points for startups, civil society, industry, and academia to innovate for our future. In the future, such government innovation labs should be established at the state level, too, in order to help states build solutions for complex problems. Ultimately, we will have a network of these labs across the country which together would be a living library of various issues and solutions implemented across sectors and geographies.

Government innovation labs are spread across the world—Accelerate Estonia, Belgium's Ghent Public Open Space Living Lab, Singapore's Public Service Division's Innovation Lab, Indonesia's Pulse Lab Jakarta, Canada's Ontario Behavioural Insights Unit, Portugal's LabX, Chile's LabGob, New York City's Office of the Chief Technology Officer, the UAE's Regulations Lab and City Makers.

In India, the education ministry has its own innovation cell. It has been established to systematically foster a culture of innovation in all higher education institutions in the country, from idea generation to pre-incubation, incubation, and graduating from the incubator as successful startups. The innovation cell is doing great work in encouraging the creative energy among students to work on new ideas and innovate, apart from pushing them to create startups and entrepreneurial ventures.

In recent times, India's digital journey has been lauded across the world. One organisation that has played a significant part in this is the National Payments Corporation of India (NPCI), an initiative of the Reserve Bank of India and the Indian Banks' Association to create a robust payment and settlement infrastructure in India. It has made a remarkable impact on the retail payment systems in the country. It has continuously come up with new and innovative products throughout its journey. NPCI's products—RuPay, Immediate Payment Service, National Automated Clearing House, Aadhaar-enabled payment system, National Financial Switch, Unified Payments Interface, Bharat Bill Payment System, National Electronic Toll Collection program—have touched the lives of every Indian, contributing towards a 'less-cash' society and enhancing the ease of living.

Various challenges of the 21st century require 21st-century answers. The advancement of human civilisation is all about innovations. Only countries which prioritise innovation and new technologies are at the forefront. Government innovation labs have the strong potential to transform the working of government machinery, significantly enhance public service delivery, and enable us to reinvent ourselves as an 'innovation nation'. Governnovations will lay a solid foundation to further improve the lives of our citizens.

India discusses Canada standoff with Australia

External Affairs Minister Dr S Jaishankar discussed India-Canada diplomatic row with Australian counterpart Penny Wong, during the India-Australia Foreign Ministers' Framework. "Canada was discussed as it was important that Australia got our perspective. Space has been given to extremism and radicalism in Canada and this had to be brought to light," said Jaishankar. A diplomatic row began between India and Canada after Canadian Prime Minister Justin Trudeau alleged that India was involved in the killing of Khalistani separatist Hardeep Singh Nijjar. The Five Eyes nations (US, Australia, UK, Canada and New Zeland) had also shared responses on Canada's allegation.

India chips in with $2.5mn humanitarian aid to Gaza

Assistance channelled through UN agency to carry out relief work

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

INDIA has donated $2.5 million to the United Nations Relief and Works Agency (UNRWA) for humanitarian assistance in Gaza. The UNRWA, functional since 1950, carries out direct relief and work programmes for registered Palestine refugees and is funded almost entirely by voluntary contributions from UN member states.

India on Monday handed the UNRWA $2.5 million as part of its annual contribution of $5 million for the year 2023-24 to support the agency's core programmes and services, including education, healthcare, relief, and social services provided to Palestinian refugees, the Representative Office of India at Ramallah said.

The contribution was handed over by the Representative of India (ROI) to Palestine, Renu Yadav, to the Director of Partnerships, Department of External Relations of UNRWA, Karim Amer.

Confirming that UNRWA received a very generous contribution from India yesterday (Monday), which is most welcome during these difficult times and in the face of huge needs across the region, particularly in Gaza

Tamara Alrifai, UNRWA spokesperson

The ROI underlined India's continued support for the agency's activities in the region and the services it provides to Palestinian refugees during the handover ceremony at UNRWA's field office in Jerusalem, an official press release said.

The UNRWA has been struggling to provide basic services to hundreds of thousands of Palestinians since the October 7 Israel-Hamas conflict which has prompted more than two-thirds of the Gaza population of approximately 2.3 million to flee their homes.

Earlier on November 19, India had delivered 32 tonnes of humanitarian assistance to the people of Palestine via the El-Arish Airport in Egypt. Since 2018, India has provided $27.5 million to the UNRWA.

During an extraordinary virtual ministerial pledging conference for UNRWA held on June 23, 2020, India announced that it would contribute $10 million to UNRWA over the next two years.

Prior to the war in Gaza, UNRWA was already facing an increased demand for services resulting from a growth in the number of registered Palestine refugees, the extent of their vulnerability, and their deepening poverty.

Zero tolerance on terror, says EAM at BRICS meet

YESHI SELI @ New Delhi

PRIME Minister Narendra Modi skipped the BRICS-Plus meet on Israel and Gaza on Tuesday. Attending the meet virtually on PM's behalf, External Affairs Minister S Jaishankar said the immediate crisis in West Asia was triggered by the terrorist attack of October 7.

"Where terrorism itself is concerned, none of us should or can compromise with it. Hostage taking is equally unacceptable and cannot be condoned. Subsequent developments have deepened our concern even more as we witness large scale civilian casualties and a humanitarian crisis. We strongly condemn any death of civilians," he said.

India said the ongoing Israel-Hamas conflict in Gaza was causing immense human suffering, including to civilians, elderly, women and children.

"We welcome all efforts of the international community towards de-escalation. Right now, there is an urgent need to ensure that humanitarian aid and relief effectively and safely reach the population of Gaza. It is also imperative that all hostages are released," he said.

Dr Jaishankar thanked South African President Ramaphosa for convening the meeting.

"I speak for Prime Minister Narendra Modi who could not join us today. We are gathered to discuss the deeply concerning situation in the Middle East, with a particular focus on Gaza. South Africa has rightly taken the initiative to convene the BRICS, and also to include those who would be part of the group in due course. I convey Prime Minister Modi's greetings to all the leaders, virtually present," said Jaishankar.

Record vegetable oil imports hit domestic prices, production dips

JITENDRA CHOUBEY @ New Delhi

INDIA experienced an unprecedented surge in vegetable oil imports, setting a record at 167.1 Lakh Tonnes (LT) in November 2022 -October 2023 period. Market analysts attribute this surge, particularly in refined palm oil, to what they view as flawed government policies. Consequently, this surge has adversely affected domestic edible oil production, posing a threat to the sustainability of the oilseeds processing industry, transforming India from a 'processor' into a mere 'packer.'

Situation poses a significant threat to the profitability and viability of our refining industry, with many units now functioning solely as packers

AK Jhunjhunwala, President, Solvent Extraction Association

Notably, over 60% of these imports, totalling 100 LT, comprised palm oil from Indonesia and Malaysia. The influx has caused a slump in domestic market prices, notably impacting mustard oil and dissuading farmers from cultivating more mustard.

Rajasthan, a major mustard seed producer, has responded by reducing the targeted acreage for mustard sowing in the current rabi season from 45.52 Lakh Hectare (LHa) to 41 LHa.

Reports on the progress of the Rabi sowing season reveal a shift away from oilseeds towards other crops. Mustard sowing has decreased from 69.31 LHa to 68.66 LHa, contributing to an overall 1.43% reduction in oilseeds acreage. States experiencing declines in oilseeds cultivation include Rajasthan, Gujarat, Haryana, Karnataka, West Bengal, Telangana, Andhra Pradesh, Odisha, and Jharkhand.

The root cause of this scenario lies in the preference for cheaper 'refined' palm oil over 'crude' palm oil (CPO) in imports, fuelled by the Indian government's decision to reduce duties and promote the import of refined oil. This marks a departure from the previous policy that encouraged processors to import CPO instead, protecting the domestic processing industry by imposing higher cess on refined oil imports.

In contrast, Malaysia and Indonesia have imposed higher cess on CPO exports, safeguarding their domestic processing industries.

NIA plea binned, cops to probe Bastar Naxal attack

EJAZ KAISER @ Raipur

THE Supreme Court on Tuesday rejected the National Investigation Agency's (NIA) plea challenging the investigation conducted by the Chhattisgarh police into the 2020 FIR related to the Maoist attack at Jhiram (Bastar) in May 2013. The attack resulted in the deaths of 29 individuals, including 20 Congress leaders.

The court, headed by Chief Justice DY Chandrachud, dismissed the NIA's argument that, as the initial investigator, it had exclusive jurisdiction over the case, preventing the state police from probing a subsequent FIR.

The incident occurred in Darbha, approximately 350 km south of Raipur, when Maoists targeted a Congress motorcade returning from a rally in Sukma. The Chhattisgarh police initiated an investigation in 2013, later handed over to the NIA. In 2018, the Congress, now in power, established a Special Investigation Team, seeking the NIA's report for further inquiry. However, the NIA refused to comply.

In 2020, Jitendra Mudaliar, son of one of the slain Congress leaders, filed a new FIR, emphasizing 'conspiracy' and 'political murder.' The Chhattisgarh police commenced its probe. Despite NIA's attempts to transfer the case to federal jurisdiction, both the Jagdalpur special court and Bilaspur high court rejected the petitions.

According to Sudeip Shrivastava, counsel for Mudaliar, the Chhattisgarh government and Mudaliar argued that the NIA hadn't investigated the larger conspiracy aspect, justifying the state's continued involvement. Chief Minister Bhupesh Baghel welcomed the decision, stating it would bring justice to Chhattisgarh.

In contrast, Arun Sao, BJP state president, questioned the government's evidence, challenging it to present during the ongoing probe.

Provide financial aid to help farmers stop stubble-burning, SC asks states

JAISON WILSON @ New Delhi

THE Supreme Court on Tuesday said that states must "forget politics" when dealing with the air pollution issue. It also suggested that a complete subsidisation of baler machines and other financial aids should be offered to poor farmers to dissuade them from crop-residue burning, a major contributing factor to the worse air quality in the national capital.

A bench, comprising Justices Sanjay Kishan Kaul and Sudhanshu Dhulia, asked the states to apply their minds to stop the air pollution.

During the hearing, the Punjab government informed the court that 984 cases have been lodged against land owners for crop-residue burning; environment compensation charge amounting to over ₹2 crore has been imposed and recovery of about ₹18 lakh has been made.

'Not villains'

Delving into situations where small-scale farmers resort to stubble burning as an "easy measure", the supreme court bench noted that the farmers are being portrayed villains in the issue often, but they need help to stop resorting to this method.

Delving into situations where small-scale farmers resort to stubble burning as an "easy measure", the court noted that the farmers are being portrayed villains in the issue often, but they need help to stop resorting to this method.

Recommending a "complete subsidisation" of baler machines for such farmers, the court also suggested other financial aid for the machine operating costs. The stubble can be a useful byproduct and be sold to the state government, the court said.

IPEF supply chain resilience agreement opens several doors for India

ARPITA MUKHERJEE
Professor, ICRIER

THE Indo-Pacific Economic Framework's (IPEF), Supply Chain Resilience Agreement (Pillar 2), is probably the fastest concluded plurilateral economic cooperation agreement, which the Minister of Commerce and Industry, Piyush Goyal, signed on November 14, 2023. India, along with 13 other countries (Australia, Brunei Darussalam, Fiji, Indonesia, Japan, Republic of Korea, Malaysia, New Zealand, Philippines, Singapore, Thailand, the US and Vietnam) are party to the agreement, which aims to fortify global supply chains and enhance adaptability, stability, and sustainability.

The agreement

The Supply Chain Resilience Agreement aims to reduce dependence on China and enhance the manufacturing of essential goods within member nations. It provides a framework to build collective understanding of significant supply chain risks, supported by each partner's identification and monitoring of its own critical sectors and key goods. It is expected to make the supply chain robust and well-integrated through crisis response measure, cooperation for mitigation of supply chain disruptions, improvements in logistics and connectivity and by mobilising investment. It aims to protect and benefit labour through adherence to ILO Declaration on Fundamental Principles and Rights at work (1998), as amended in 2022, and ensure the availability of a sufficient number of skilled workers in critical sectors and goods, including by upskilling and reskilling workers. It also aims to identify opportunities for technical assistance and capacity building in strengthening IPEF partners' supply chains.

Cutting dependence on China for essential goods

The Supply Chain Resilience Agreement aims to reduce dependence on China and enhance the manufacturing of essential goods within member nations. It provides a framework to build collective understanding of major supply chain risks among member nations.

The agreement will establish three IPEF supply chain bodies to facilitate cooperation among the IPEF partners on supply chain issues. These are:

• The IPEF Supply Chain Council: The agreement will establish a mechanism for the IPEF members to work collectively to develop sector-specific action plans for critical sectors and key goods to enhance the resilience of IPEF member countries' supply chains, through measures like diversification of sources, infrastructure and workforce development, enhanced logistics connectivity, business matching, joint research and development, and trade facilitation.

• The IPEF Supply Chain Crisis Response Network: This network will be an emergency communications channel for the member countries to seek support during a supply chain disruption and to facilitate information sharing and collaboration during a crisis.

• The IPEF Labour Rights Advisory Board: The advisory board will consist of government, worker and employer representatives, as well as a subcommittee composed of government representatives, to support member countries in promotion of labour rights in their supply chains, promoting sustainable trade and investment, and facilitate opportunities for investment in businesses that respect labour rights as per the ILO standards.

Opportunities for India

Once implemented, the agreement is expected to bring in several benefits to India. The members represent around 40% of the global GDP and 28% of international trade. India can gradually replace China as the global sourcing hub for IPEF partner countries. Some of the potential benefits include a shift of production centres in key goods/critical sectors to India; increase in domestic manufacturing capacities aligning with the objective of Aatmanirbhar Bharat; and enhance investment in production of key goods, logistics services and infrastructure. It will help in deeper integration of MSMEs in value chains and enhance trade facilitation through digital exchange of trade documentation and quicker port clearances. Provision of joint research and development can help diversify manufacturing and adhering to ILO standards will facilitate the transition of employment from informal to formal.

Speaking at the event for signing the agreement, Goyal emphasised on enhanced collaboration to realise collective aims of the IPEF, particularly on the need for mobilising affordable financing for clean economy transition and for enhancing technology cooperation. He also urged early implementation of the envisaged cooperative work under IPEF, including on bio-fuels alliance. At the sideline of the signing-in ceremony, Goyal held meetings with businesses communities for facilitating investment in India and B2B collaborations.

The agreement is unique as it aims to increase the resilience, efficiency, productivity, sustainability, transparency, diversification, security, fairness, and inclusivity of supply chains of the signatory countries through both collaborative activities. India already has trade agreements with several IPEF partners and these needs to be reviewed in the line of this new initiative. While many components of this agreement are not binding, if the IPEF partners are committed to operationalise the agreement, this will bring benefits to businesses and workers in the member countries.

Cong says will raise health insurance cover to ₹50 lakh

Rahul calls PM 'liability'

In a broadside against the BJP, Rahul Gandhi accused the saffron camp of spreading hatred in the country. In Rajasthan, Rahul said the sole agenda of the BJP was to misguide people in the name of religion. With PM Modi using cricket analogies, the Congress leader used the 'panauti' (liability) trend on India's World Cup defeat to get back at the Prime Minister. "Panauti (meaning liability or bad omen) got our team defeated. PM means Panauti Modi." Rahul said.

RAJESH ASNANI @Jaipur

THE Congress finally released its manifesto four days ahead of voting in Rajasthan. Party chief Mallikarjun Kharge was in Jaipur to formally release the document.

The manifesto has promised to increase the health insurance scheme from ₹25 lakh to ₹50 lakh for all citizens of the state. Congress has projected it as one of the winning cards in the elections. The party also promises to enact legislation to implement the Minimum Support Price for farmers based on the recommendations of the Swaminathan Committee. The party commits to providing interest-free loans to both farmers and village traders.

The BJP's focus on the exam paper leak in its campaign has prompted the Congress to make substantial promises to various sections of the society, particularly the youth. The Congress has outlined plans for job creation, promising 10 lakh new jobs for the youth, including 4 lakh in the government sector. The party has also vowed to conduct a caste census if it regains power in the state. The manifesto, named Public Manifesto-2, was presented by Manifesto Committee Chairman CP Joshi at the PCC office in the presence of several senior party leaders.

In addition to the party's key assurances, the 'seven guarantees' mentioned in the manifesto encompass various initiatives such as providing affordable gas cylinders to families with BPL and Ujjwala gas connections and ensuring English medium education for all children.

Chief Minister Ashok Gehlot emphasized the collective effort behind framing the manifesto, saying that 3.32 crore people contributed their suggestions for Mission 2030.

CP Joshi, while presenting the manifesto, spoke about the vision of creating a new Rajasthan by 2030. The promises include the Griha Lakshmi Yojana, providing ₹10,000 annually to female heads of households, and implementing policies to enhance women's safety, such as installing CCTV cameras in public places. Other significant promises include conducting a caste-based census, increasing health services under Chiranjeevi Yojana, and extending education up to the Class 12.

PM takes a jibe at Cong, calls party 'slave of appeasement'

DECIDE

'Three evils'

Alleging poor law & order, PM said Congress is now a symbol of graft, nepotism, appeasement — three evils preventing India from becoming a developed nation.

RAJESH ASNANI @Jaipur

PRIME Minister Narendra Modi sharpened his attack on the ruling Congress in Rajasthan on Tuesday saying the Congress was a "slave of appeasement," which was why people like Kanhaiya Lal were beheaded in the state.

"The Popular Front of India (PFI) is a terrorist organisation and the government has banned it. But PFI processions take place in Kota and the Congress government sleeps. The Congress government is a slave to appeasement and is afraid of terrorists," said the PM. Addressing a public meeting in Rajasthan's Baran district, the PM said even as the country suffered, Congress leaders handed them to "robbers, rioters and criminals."

"Those accused of organising communal riots in Rajasthan walked the red carpet in the CM house," said Modi. He slammed communal incidents in the state and asserted that the Gehlot government should be thrown out of power for its appeasement agenda. He alleged the Congress has turned Rajasthan, a land of warriors, into an unchallenged territory of rioters. PM Modi said every section of society wanted to get rid of the Congress.

"Congress is now a symbol of corruption, nepotism, and appeasement — three evils preventing India from becoming a developed nation," he said.

Besides Baran, the PM also addressed public meetings in Kota and Karauli districts. In the evening, he also held a grand road show to woo voters in Jaipur.

The PM targeted the Gehlot government over its failure to check the rising crime graph against women. He said state ministers were seen standing with those who committed atrocities against sisters and daughters. He slammed a senior Gehlot minister for his controversial remarks on atrocities against women. "Instead of taking action against the criminals, the Congress government has given them a free hand to commit crimes," said Modi. Meanwhile, Union home minister Amit Shah, while addressing election meetings in Sikar and Jhunjhunu, Rajasthan, also targeted the Gehlot government and said "appeasement" was at its peak in the state.

Singhdeo keeps his CM ambition alive

Deputy Chief Minister TS Singhdeo who contested from Ambikapur seat, while citing that the Congress has fought the Chhattisgarh elections under the joint leadership led by Chief Minister Bhupesh Baghel, said that his name has never been projected by the party for the CM post. He said that if the Congress gives him an opportunity to become the CM after retaining the power in Chhattisgarh, he will comply with that. The state leadership, however, cited Singhdeo's view as personal, since the decision on the CM candidate is taken by the Congress legislature party and the high command finalises it.

Paddy growers wait for new government

With both the Congress and the BJP promising higher minimum support price per quintal purchase at ₹3,200 (Congress) and ₹3,100 (BJP) in their manifestoes, the farmers are awaiting the formation of the new government. Poor attendance of the registered farmers to sell their paddy was witnessed at various mandis across the state. Paddy procurement remains a major political issue in Chhattisgarh, which is cited as the 'rice bowl'. Congress has further promised that all farm loans will be waived off. The paddy procurement exercise has already begun in the state from November in the ongoing Kharif season and the process will continue till January 31 next year.

'It is a political problem, needs political solution'

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Guwahati

EASTERN Army Commander Lt Gen Rana Pratap Kalita on Tuesday said the ethnic violence in Manipur would continue as long as the weapons looted by mobs are not recovered. At a media interaction in Guwahati, he also said it is a "political problem" in the state where two communities, Kukis and Meiteis, have got polarised.

"Although the level of violence has come down, over 5,000 weapons were taken away from various police stations and other places. Out of that, about 1,500 weapons have been recovered. So, some 4,000 weapons are still out and as long as these are out in society, the sporadic violence will continue," Lt Gen Kalita, who hails from Assam, said.

The weapons, along with ammunition, were looted in several incidents on different days. The state had appealed to people multiple times to return the weapons. It had also warned that if the weapons are not returned, those possessing them would face actions as per the law. To a query, Lt Gen Kalita said there are some "legacy issues" among Kukis, Nagas and Meiteis in the strife-torn state.

On guard: MP Cong to train its candidates for counting day

ANURAAG SINGH @Bhopal

THE Congress has called all its 230 candidates to Bhopal on November 26 for training them on relevant aspects of counting of votes. Madhya Pradesh went to polls on November 17, and the counting will take place across 55 districts on December 3.

According to the state Congress sources in Bhopal, each candidate and his two agents will be trained in all technical and legal aspects of counting.

"The exercise is particularly being conducted to train the candidates in all aspects of training, spanning from EVM seals being opened, tallying of signatures and ensuring receipt of certificates after every round of counting to prevent possibility of any malpractice," a senior state Congress leader told this newspaper.

As per informed sources, a similar training session is also likely to be conducted by the ruling BJP, but the details are not yet out.

Upbeat about returning to power on its own (unlike in 2018 when it garnered the support of independents and smaller parties), the state Congress has written to all its 230 candidates to furnish by November 30 details about government staff who might have openly helped the ruling BJP during the election in the state.

"Our election control room, which was established on November 17, received complaints about government staff, including officials, helping the ruling BJP against all established rules and procedures. All the candidates have been asked to submit all possible details about such government staff/officials (including picture and video evidence) along with their partisan conduct to the state Congress by November 30. Once our government is back in the state, it will ensure that such partisan staff are rendered justice," a state Congress leader said in Bhopal.

Importantly, the state Congress chief and party's chief ministerial face Kamal Nath, during the poll campaign, had been hinting towards action against the government staff/officials siding with the BJP during the entire poll process.

Led by women voters, Madhya Pradesh reported highest ever turnout of over 76% in the November 17 polls to 230 assembly constituencies.

BJP's double-engine govt will end corruption and mafia raj in Raj, says Yogi

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Jaipur

UTTAR Pradesh CM Yogi Adityanath kicked off campaign in Rajasthan on Tuesday by visiting Dungarpur and Chittorgarh. He addressed election rallies in these districts in support of BJP candidates. Yogi said that the land of Rajasthan was a symbol of bravery.

"It is a land of devotion and power. But the people of the state have been complaining for the last five years. The government of Rajasthan fail to stop crimes, atrocities on women and corruption," he commented.

He attacked the Gehlot government and remarked that BJP ended terrorism by removing Section 370. "Similarly, to end corruption, misgovernance, mafia raj and gunda raj in Rajasthan, BJP governments at the state and Centre has to be formed," he said.

Accusing Congress of appeasement, he said that Uttar Pradesh is a much bigger state and social and religious programmes are held there, but curfew is imposed only in Rajasthan. Explaining the reason for this, the Chief Minister of

UP stated that hooliganism is no more present in UP. Praising the Modi government, he said that by solving every problem, better railways, airports, IITs and IIMs were built.

Taking a potshot at Congress, he said that even so many years after Independence, Congress could not even provide toilets and houses to the poor.

The UP CM said that the Central government makes various types of welfare schemes, but the Rajasthan government is not able to implement them. Taking the state government to task, Yogi added that there were many mining mafias in the state. "There have been incidents of murders and rapes in the last five years. The schemes of the Centre were also not implemented effectively in the state," Yogi said.

Nitish govt issues gazette notification for 2 bills, raises reservation to 65%

RAMASHANKAR @Patna

BIHAR government on Tuesday issued gazette notification for two quota Bills after Governor Rajendra Vishwanath Arlekar signed the Bihar Reservation of Vacancies in Posts and Services (for SC, ST, EBC and OBC) Amendment Bill and the Bihar (In Admission in Educational Institutions) Reservation Amendment Bill, 2023 paving the way for hike in quota from existing 50 per cent to 65 per cent.

Governor Arlekar had signed the two Bills on November 18. Earlier both Assembly and Council had passed the Bills on November 9 unanimously.

The Governor gave his assent to the two Reservation Amendment Bills barely a few days after chief minister Nitish Kumar expressed hope that the Bills would be signed by the Governor at the earliest.

With issuance of gazette notification, reservation in government jobs and educational institutions in the state will be 75 per cent (inclusive of 10 per cent quota for Economically Backward Sections).

Under the new provision, the reservation quota for Scheduled Castes (SCs) has gone up to 20 per cent, while that of Scheduled Tribes (STs) has gone up to 2 per cent, Extremely Backwards Classes (EBCs) to 25 per cent and Other Backward Classes (OBCs) to 18 per cent. At present the SCs get 16 per cent reservation in government jobs and educational institutions where as SCs get 1 per cent only. Similarly EBCs get 18 per cent and OBCs 15 per cent respectively.

Gazette notification said, "On analysis of data collected during caste based survey 2022-23, it is apparent that large section of OBCs, SCs and STs need to be promoted for them to catch up to satisfy cherished aim in the Constitution of equality in opportunity and status."

It further stated, "The members of SC/ST and OBC have remained deprived and marginalised for centuries. Though affirmative action has led to improvement in their life to a certain extent, the ultimate goal of equality has not yet been achieved. Date further strengthens the perception that in addition to measures in place the state needs to take more action for proportional equality."

Quota for SCs up

Under the new provision, the reservation quota for Scheduled Castes (SCs) has gone up to 20 per cent, while that of Scheduled Tribes (STs) has gone up to 2 per cent, Extremely Backwards Classes (EBCs) to 25 per cent and Other Backward Classes (OBCs) to 18 per cent. At present the SCs get 16 per cent reservation.

On Shinde turf, quota leader asks CM to keep word

SUDHIR SURYAWANSHI @Mumbai

MARATHA quota leader Manoj Jarange Patil on Tuesday addressed the mega rally in Maharashtra chief minister Eknath Shinde's bastion and home town Thane and asked him to fulfil the promise of giving reservations to Maratha community. He even asked to withdraw the cases that has been registered against the Maratha protestors.

Patil is touring the state and meeting the Maratha community people to galvanise the movement and press the demand of Maratha reservations. Shinde reacted to Jarange Patil's rally and said that this rally is not against him.

Shinde said that the government's stand over Maratha reservations very clear. "We are committed to granting the reservations to Maratha community and are working towards that direction. It is the responsibility of the government to grant the reservation to Marathas. We want to give reservations that is sustainable," he said.

5 jumbos electrocuted after coming in contact with overhead wire in J'khand

MUKESH RANJAN @Ranchi

AS many as five elephants died of electrocution after coming in contact with 33,000 volt overhead wire in Jharkhand. The incident took place early in the morning on Tuesday in the jungles of Musabani under Ghatsila sub-division of East Singhbhum district.

Earlier too, two wild elephants allegedly had died due to electrocution in the region on November 1 and November 2. According to locals, five wild tuskers, including two calves, were electrocuted by a high-tension over head wire that had fallen on the forest stretch. The high-tension line had been drawn reportedly to feed the power supply to Hindustan Copper Ltd in Ghatsila.

Locals claimed that a section of villagers in Mosabani were driving a herd of 12 wild elephants away towards the forest this morning and incidentally discovered five elephants lying dead in the jungles. The villagers have found a pair of fallen high-tension wires entangled with the dead elephants' carcass.

'No action by electricity board'

A villager said that Despite repeated complaints to the electricity department to raise the height of the overhead wire, no action was taken in this regard due to which the five elephants were electrocuted. Earlier, two wild jumbos had died due to electrocution in the region on November 1 and 2.

"Despite repeated complaints to the electricity department to raise the height of the overhead wire, no action was taken in this regard due to which the five elephants were electrocuted," said a villager requesting anonymity. A herd of elephants, about 8 in number, have been roaming in the area for the last few weeks which has panicked the villagers, he added.

Meanwhile, forest department has asked the villagers to remain alert at night as there is a possibility that the remaining three elephants may come back looking for the other members of the herd and may get angered and spoil the atmosphere in the region.

Forest officials confirmed that five elephants, including 2 calves, have died due to electrocution. They, however, informed that the process of identifying sagged overhead wires was on and they had also submitted a list of 66 locations in Chakulia to the electricity department to tighten them after the November 1 and 2 incidents.

"The process of identifying the sagged wires in Musabani area was on...in between the incident took place which is really very unfortunate," said Jamshedpur DFO Mamta Priyadarshi. They have also called the General Manager of Jharkhand Bijli Vitaran Nigam Limited (JBVNL) and officials of HCL as well, to feel the seriousness of the matter and take adequate measures in this regard, she added. The DFO said that she has also alerted the field staff to increase patrolling in the region.

Fingers crossed as leaders indicate Gaza truce is 'close'

Hope looms on the horizon for hostages' safe return as Israel, Hamas, Qatar and US say agreement could be reached soon

GAZA STRIP

HOPES mounted on Tuesday that Hamas could release dozens of hostages from war-torn Gaza after the militant group's leader and key mediator Qatar said a truce deal was in sight and the Israeli premier pointed to "progress".

"We are close to reaching a deal on a truce," Hamas leader Ismail Haniyeh said.

In Qatar, foreign ministry spokesman Majed Al-Ansari said "we're very optimistic, very hopeful" and told reporters: "We are at the closest point we ever had been in reaching an agreement."

Israeli Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu, who has vowed to destroy Hamas, told soldiers at a military base that "we are making progress" on the return of hostages. "I hope there will be good news soon," he added. Netanyahu's office said the special three-member War Cabinet met on Tuesday and would be followed by meetings of his Security Cabinet, a forum of senior security officials, and the full Cabinet.

There was no word on whether a vote would take place, and details of a deal were not released.

US President Joe Biden also signaled that a deal to free hostages and a temporary truce is "now very close."

"We are now very close, very close. We could bring some of these hostages home very soon. But I don't want to get into the details of things, because nothing is done until it's done," he said at the White House. "Things are looking good at the moment."

Hopes of a breakthrough have been mounting since Qatar on Sunday said only "minor" practical issues remained to secure a deal.

Speculation grew further when the International Committee of the Red Cross, which is often involved in prisoner exchanges and hostage releases, said on Monday that its president had met Haniyeh in Qatar. Despite the efforts towards a truce, fighting raged on in Gaza's bloodiest ever war, sparked by the October 7 attack in which Israel says Hamas gunmen killed around 1,200 people, mostly civilians.

In retaliation, Israel launched a relentless bombing campaign and ground offensive in the Gaza Strip. According to the Hamas government, the war has killed more than 13,300 people, thousands of them children. Sources from Hamas and Islamic Jihad, which also participated in the attacks, said on condition of anonymity that their groups had agreed to the terms of a truce deal.

The tentative agreement would include a five-day truce, comprised of a complete ceasefire on the ground and an end to Israeli air operations over Gaza, except in the north, where they would only halt for six hours daily. Under the deal, which the sources said could yet change, between 50 and 100 Israeli civilian and foreign hostages would be released, but no military personnel.

Concern over seizure of ship by Houthis

The UN Secretary-General is following with "deep concern" reports of the seizure of an Israeli-linked vessel by the Houthis in the Red Sea that was reportedly en route between Turkiye and India, a spokesperson said. On Sunday, a British-owned and Japanese-operated ship named "Galaxy Leader" was seized near Hodeida, Yemen, while sailing for India, according to the vessel's operator, NYK Line.

53 media workers killed in war

Fifty-three journalists and media workers have been killed in the latest war between Israel and Hamas, according to a tally by the Committee to Protect Journalists (CPJ) published Tuesday. The toll includes 46 Palestinians, four Israelis and three Lebanese killed since the war began on October 7, the New York-based organisation said. The CPJ said 11 journalists have been injured and 3 are missing

Israeli strikes kills 4 civilians in Lebanon

BEIRUT

ISRAELI bombardment of south Lebanon on Tuesday killed four civilians, official media said, including two journalists from Lebanon's Al-Mayadeen television, the broadcaster reported, in ongoing violence at the Lebanon-Israel border.

Since the Israel-Hamas war began on October 7, the frontier between Lebanon and Israeli has seen escalating exchanges of fire, mainly between Israel and the Iran-backed Hezbollah movement, but also Palestinian groups, raising fears of a broader conflagration.

The state-run National News Agency (NNA) reported "the deaths of three citizens—two journalists and another civilian—in enemy bombing" of the Tair Harfa area. Al-Mayadeen said its correspondent Farah Omar, 25, and cameraman Rabih Maamari, 40, were killed.

Lebanon's army also said the trio were killed in "enemy bombing". Israel's military said "soldiers operated against a threat" from a Hezbollah "launching area" in the area of Jebbayn, near Tair Harfa.

"We are aware of a claim regarding journalists in the area who were killed as a result of IDF (army) fire. This is an area with active hostilities, where exchanges of fire occur... The incident is under review," it said. Al-Mayadeen director Ghassan bin Jiddo said third civilian killed with the journalists was a "contributor".

200 people evacuated from Gaza hospital

Gaza's Hamas-run health ministry said 200 patients were evacuated from a hospital with the help of the Red Cross just hours after it was hit by a deadly Israeli strike. Health ministry spokesman Ashraf al-Qudra said 200 people were evacuated from the Indonesian hospital in Jabaliya and taken to Nasser hospital in Khan Yunis

Xi call for international peace conference at BRICS-plus meet

BEIJING

CHINESE President Xi Jinping on Tuesday called for an "international peace conference" to resolve the conflict between Israel and Hamas, as he addressed a virtual summit of fellow BRICS leaders.

"There can be no sustainable peace and security in the Middle East without a just solution to the question of Palestine," Xi said, speaking through an interpreter. "China calls for an early convening of an international peace conference that is more authoritative to build international consensus for peace," he said.

Such a conference would, Xi added, "work toward an early solution to the question of Palestine that is comprehensive, just and sustainable".

"Since the outbreak of the latest Palestinian-Israeli conflict, China has been working actively to promote peace talks and a ceasefire," he said.

Beijing, he said, "has provided humanitarian assistance to help ease the humanitarian plight in Gaza" and would continue to do so.

Pretoria is hosting a virtual meeting of BRICS—a group of major emerging economies that includes Brazil, Russia, India, China and South Africa — aimed at drawing up a common response to the Israel-Hamas conflict. China has historically been sympathetic to the Palestinians and supportive of a two-state solution to the Israeli-Palestinian conflict. Xi also called for the release of civilian detainees and an immediate ceasefire in the war between Israel and Hamas, state media said. "All parties in the conflicts should immediately cease fire and hostilities, stop all violence and attacks targeting civilians, and release civilian detainees to avoid more loss of lives and suffering," Xi said, according to Xinhua.

Musk's X sues media nonprofit over portrayal of site as anti-Semitic

SAN FRANCISCO

ELON Musk's X Corp. on Monday sued nonprofit Media Matters for driving advertisers away from the platform by portraying it as rife with anti-Semitic content.

In a lawsuit filed in US federal court in Texas, X accuses the organisation of "tricking the algorithm into thinking Media Matters wanted to view both hateful content and content from large advertisers."

Apple, Comcast, NBCUniversal and IBM were among high-profile brands that paused advertising on X last week after Media Matters reported finding ads displayed with pro-Nazi content. The advertising exodus also came in the wake of Musk endorsing an anti-Semitic conspiracy theory.

"This is a frivolous lawsuit meant to bully X's critics into silence," Media Matters president Angelo Carusone said.

"Media Matters stands behind its reporting and looks forward to winning in court."

The White House has condemned Musk, the world's richest person, for "abhorrent promotion" of anti-Semitism.

The White House was reacting to a post by Musk in which the Tesla tycoon replied to an anti-Semitic post on X with the words: "You have said the actual truth." The original post has been widely seen as a reference to a longtime false conspiracy theory among White supremacists that Jews have a secret plan to bring illegal immigrants into US to move US demographics away from a white majority.

Most notoriously, the idea was promoted by the man who carried out a mass shooting at a synagogue in Pittsburgh in 2018, killing 11 people. The suit does not mention Musk's endorsement of the conspiracy theory, instead blames recent ad woes on Media Matters.

"Media Matters knowingly and maliciously manufactured side-by-side images depicting advertisers' posts on X Corp.'s social media platform beside Neo-Nazi and white-nationalist fringe content and then portrayed these manufactured images as if they were what typical X users experience," the lawsuit contended.

ED notice to Byju's for ₹9.3K cr FEMA violation

Byju's says it has not received notice from the agency, and reached out to investors assuring them it complied with regulations

UMA KANNAN @ Bengaluru

THE Enforcement The Enforcement Directorate (ED) on Tuesday issued a show-cause notice to edtech company Byjus in relation to FEMA (Foreign Exchange Management Act) violations to the tune of ₹9,362.35 crore.

The ED notice comes as the latest trouble for the company, which has been grappling with multiple challenges in the past one year. The federal probe agency had initiated investigation on the basis of various complaints regarding the foreign investment received by Byju's parent company Think and Learn Private Limited and the business conduct of the company.

"The company was stated to have made significant foreign remittances and investments abroad, which were allegedly in contravention of provisions of FEMA, 1999 and caused loss of revenue to the Government of India," the agency said in a statement.

In April this year, ED had conducted searches on the premises of Think and Learn and residence of its founder Byju Raveendran and seized documents pertaining to investments received by the company as well as documents pertaining to its overseas investments. The agency said, "On conclusion of the investigation, it was found M/s. Think & Learn & Byju Raveendran have contravened the provisions of FEMA by failing to submit documents of imports against advance remittances made outside India..."

Yet another trouble for Bengaluru-based edtech firm

This is yet another trouble for the edtech company, grappling with multiple challenges in the past one year. The probe agency had initiated investigation on the basis of various complaints regarding the foreign investment received by the Byju's parent company, Think and Learn

Meanwhile, Byju's has reached out to its investors and assured that the company has always been compliant with FEMA regulations. Till Tuesday evening, the company said it didn't receive any notice, but ED confirmed the notice by releasing a statement on Tuesday.

"Byju's has maintained a cooperative stance with the ED throughout their inquiries. We have answered all their queries, both verbally and on record," a letter sent by the company to its investors said.

The company is backed by investors including Chan-Zuckerberg Initiative, General Atlantic, Tencent, Lightspeed Ventures and Tiger Global, among others.

Jindal Power scraps plan to bid for bankrupt Go First

ARSHAD KHAN @ New Delhi

IN a setback for stakeholders of Go First, billionaire Naveen Jindal-backed Jindal Power Ltd (JPL) has decided against its plan to bid for the airline, which is undergoing an insolvency resolution process, according to industry sources.

JPL had last month put in an Expression of Interest (EoI) for the bankrupt airline. It had sought details about the airline's assets and other documents. "After going through evaluation, Jindal Power has decided not to put in a bid," said the industry source. Tuesday (November 21) was also the last day to submit the final bid for the airline.

There was no official comment from JPL or the resolution professional (RP) of Go First on the same. In October, regional carrier Jettwings Airways had announced putting in a bid for Go First. Promoted by Wadia-family, Go First stopped flying on May 3, a day after it filed for bankruptcy. It faced financial crisis due to non-supply of engines by Pratt & Whitney (P&W) that led to the grounding of about half of its fleet, forcing it to take this step, the airline had told. Jindal's decision to back off from buying the airline is a setback for the creditors as they may be left with no other option but to liquate the assets of the airline, said a legal expert.

Trai making DND app compatible with Android, iOS

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

THE Telecom Regulatory Authority of India (Trai) is fixing bugs in its do not disturb (DND) app to make it compatible with Android smartphones and iPhones to help users report pesky calls and text messages.

Speaking at the Truecaller event, Trai Secretary V Raghunandan said the regulatory body has incorporated an agency to fix bugs in the app. The purpose of the app is to provide consumers with a more effective tool to deal with pesky calls and ensure smoother functioning of the app. "We have roped in an agency, which is fixing bugs in the app. There were issues with some Android devices that have been addressed to a large extent. We are trying to make the app compatible with all Android devices by March," Raghunandan said.

Trai's DND app has been displaying errors when mobile subscribers try to report spam calls and SMS. Apple had denied giving the app access to call logs but Raghunandan said work is on to make the app compatible with iOS devices as well. "One agency -- public or private – can't address all aspects of security in the country and the approach must be collaborative with strategic public-private partnerships," he said.

SRI LANKA

CONSUMER INFLATION RISES 1% IN OCTOBER

The consumer price inflation in Sri Lanka surged to 1% in October from 0.8% in September, according to the country's statistics department. The National Consumer Price Index (NCPI) mirrors a broader spectrum of retail price movements and is declared every month with a lag of 21 days. Food prices declined 5.2% in October from a year earlier, the Department of Census and Statistics said in a statement. The debt-ridden country saw its consumer inflation falling to 6.3% in July, a significant drop from 12% in June. This improvement is attributed to the stringent monetary and fiscal policies, and a favorable base effect. The bailout of nearly $3 billion in March 2023 by the International Monetary Fund (IMF) also played a crucial role in reducing inflation. The government aims for a budget deficit of 9.1% of GDP, impacted by bank recapitalization costs.

THAILAND

GDP TO GROW BY 2.5% IN 2023

The gross domestic product (GDP) of Thailand for this year is projected to grow at 2.5%, down from the earlier projection of 3%, mainly owing to a fall in exports and reduced government sector consumption, as per the government data. The country reported a growth rate of only 1.5% for the third quarter due to a contraction in exports and a fall in government sector consumption. For the first nine months of the year, growth was recorded at 1.9%, similar to the previous year. Public sector investments are expected to fall by 1.8% due to delays in budget disbursement. The country's government plans to boost annual growth to 5% by implementing a digital wallet programme that would provide a one-time cash handout to millions of Thais. Thailand's growth for 2024 is projected between 1.7% and 3.7%, with the potential for further growth in case exports and investments pick up.

INDONESIA

POSTS SMALLER CURRENT ACCOUNT DEFICIT IN Q3

Indonesia current account deficit for the third quarter (Q3) of 2023 was at US$0.9 billion, which is equivalent to 0.2% of gross domestic product, the central bank said on Tuesday. This figure is much smaller than the previous three months due to recovering demand in some export commodities. The country reported $2.2 billion current account deficit in the second quarter, which is equivalent to 0.6% of GDP, which was the first quarterly deficit in two years. According to revised data from Bank Indonesia (BI), the country's monthly trade surpluses have been falling in value this year as prices of its top commodities such as coal and palm oil weakened compared to a year ago. BI said the smaller Q3 current account deficit was supported by recovering trade of goods as demand for steel and iron increased amid weakening global commodity prices.

'Inflation remains a risk for Indian economy'

MONIKA YADAV @ New Delhi

INFLATION still remains a major concern for the economy, prompting both the government and the Reserve Bank of India (RBI) to remain vigilant, according to finance ministry's monthly economic review released on Tuesday.

The report said monitoring financial flows in external sector is crucial as they impact the value of the Indian rupee and the balance of payments. Additionally, the complete transmission of monetary policy could moderate domestic demand.

Emerging markets, including India, have benefited from the rapid reversal of rate hike expectations in the US, along with a decline in the US 10-year treasury yield and oil prices. The overvalued US stocks pose a potential risk to global stocks. Overall, India's growth prospects in FY24 appear promising, supported by sustained public investment in infrastructure and advancements in digital public infrastructure.

Consumer price inflation (CPI) fell in October 2023, mainly due to the dip in core (non-food, non-fuel) inflation. The overall CPI-C inflation was at a four-month low, and its core component was the lowest in the last 43 months. The trend in wholesale price Index (WPI) also suggests that the cost of principal inputs to production in the economy has declined overall.

"Apart from the policy measures of the government, the transmission of the monetary policy tightening may be beginning to take effect. Against a cumulative hike of 250 basis points (bps) in policy repo rate, lending rates have increased by 187 bps in respect of fresh loans and 105 bps in respect of outstanding loans," said the report. The Indian economy has been remarkably resilient amid a global slowdown, buoyed by solid domestic demand, it said.

The ministry added that the supply-side economy in FY24 has validated the confidence placed in it. The agriculture sector has made rapid progress in procuring wheat and rice, resulting in a continuous increase in food reserves.

Technical glitches in MCA portal version 3 persist

MONIKA YADAV @ New Delhi

PROFESSIONALS continue to experience technical glitches on the Ministry of Corporate Affairs' (MCA) version 3 portal, according to the people aware of the matter.

While some initial issues have been resolved, the smooth filing of master data and director KYC remains problematic besides other glitches. As per experts, certain companies, including listed ones, still display outdated capital information despite capital increases. The generation of one-time passwords (OTPs) for DIN can also fail, leading to wasted time.

"On the version 3 portal, some firms including those which are listed, are still showing old capital, though there has been an increase in their capital," one of the professionals said. He added that sometimes one-time password (OTPs) for DIN doesn't get generated because of which a lot of time gets wasted.

"The efficiency of version 3 is really compromised. We face errors while making payments and get reprimanded by clients for imposition of penalty, even when we are not at fault," said a professional, who didn't want to be named.

However, as compared to initial troubles, things are improving. "Previously, when the portal was new, we faced a lot of difficulties in uploading forms. Because of system flaw, other companies' forms used to get downloaded instead of the concerned company," the source stated. He said, "However, gradually things are improving and now the help desk also tries to sort matters within two days of raising the issues unlike earlier when they used to get bombarded with emails," he added.

The centre is launching the third version of the portal in phases. In version 2, corporate social responsibility (CSR) reports, annual returns of the companies, MSME returns, etc are still being filed. According to experts, earlier, they had to visit the office of Registrar of Companies (RoC) to get things resolved, but now the system is functioning smoothly and issues get resolved through helpdesk.

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

MUKESH AMBANI, Chairman and MD of Reliance Industries Ltd (RIL), and India's richest billionaire on Tuesday said his company is planning to invest ₹20,000 crore in West Bengal in next three years.

ICC bans trans women from international ties

Cricket joins the list of other major sports to implement this rule

GOMESH S @ Chennai

DANIELLE McGahey, who became the first transgender cricketer to play in an official international match two months ago, will not be able to represent Canada in women's internationals going forward under the latest gender eligibility regulations announced by the global cricketing body on Tuesday.

The ICC board has approved the new rules at the board meeting, according to which any player who has transitioned from male to female and has been through any form of male puberty will not be allowed to participate in women's international cricket, regardless of any surgery or gender reassignment treatment they may have undertaken. ICC Chief Executive Geoff Allardice said, "The changes to the gender eligibility regulations resulted from an extensive consultation process and is founded in science and aligned with the core principles developed during the review."

McGahey, who took part in the ICC Women's T20 World Cup Americas Region Qualifier in September, played six T20Is for Canada under the regulations that were existing at the time. The 29-year-old batter, who is originally from Australia before moving to Canada, socially transitioned to a woman in November 2020 and started medically transitioning in May 2021. McGahey followed the ICC regulations that were there in place at the time, according to which the trans women who wish to play international cricket must demonstrate "the concentration of testosterone in her serum has been less than 5 nmol/L1 continuously for a period of at least 12 months, and that she is ready, willing and able to continue to keep it below that level for so long as she continues to compete".

However, the new regulations adopted by the ICC means not just McGahey, any transgender cricketer, any form of male puberty will not be allowed to participate in women's international cricket. The ICC has left the decision to determine the gender eligibility at the domestic level to individual member boards. This decision comes after a series of other sports banning trans women from competing in the women's category. The list includes World Rugby, World Aquatics, World Athletics, Union Cycliste Internationale, and the International Chess Federation.

Bengaluru-based writer and trans activist Nadika Nadja, however, criticised the decision saying that it is not based on medical evidence that has been generated over the past 70 years of transgender medicine. "It very categorically says that when a person transitions from male to female their body undergoes the same biological changes that a woman undergoes also. In fact, there are lots of studies that say that trans women who are on hormones suffer severe loss of muscle definition, quality, strength, fitness. The science is clearly saying that trans women who are undergoing hormone replacement therapy or other therapies have significantly lower testosterone levels than even women. The body goes through a lot, basically, it is like undergoing puberty as a woman. I cannot say it better than that," Nadika told this daily. "Even otherwise, what are you signalling? It is basically saying that the sport is for those who are considered as men. It is basically saying, the ideal sportsperson is a man and everybody else is inferior. Even if they think that trans women are men, are they saying that women cannot play against men? This is the thing I wanted to say, are you implicitly saying they are not good enough." Nadika added.

Roberta Avery, Brazil captain, who took part in the same tournament McGahey played, did not want to comment on the decision but stated that it appears to have been made by the ICC "in good faith with the benefit of the most recent scientific advice". However, she said that the timing of the decision is really unfortunate. "Danielle McGahey was allowed to play in the recent World Cup Qualifier on the basis of the rules that applied at the time. As a result, she was subjected to a lot of abuse from people who have never met her and who don't understand the difficult journey she's been on. She and her teammates also had a reasonable expectation that she would be allowed to play in future matches. So it's unfortunate that this decision has been made after the event, once Danielle's hopes had been raised and after she's already been exposed to a huge amount of scrutiny and abuse. That can't be good for anyone's mental health," Roberta told this daily through a statement. "It would have been better if these new rules had been put in place by the ICC before the World Cup Qualifier and not as a reactionary response to Danielle's participation and the resulting media furore. The ICC lifted the hopes of a whole community and it feels like those hopes have now been dashed," she added.

Among other decisions that were taken at the meeting are the upcoming men's U19 World Cup being moved to South Africa from Sri Lanka after the latter's suspension. However, the ICC has said that Sri Lanka can continue to compete internationally while their funding is controlled by the global body. They agreed to introduce a stop clock in men's ODIs and T20Is from December 2023 to April 2024 to regulate the time between overs. If the bowling team is not ready to bowl the next over within 60 seconds, a 5-run penalty will be imposed the third time it happens in an innings.

Key decisions

- Trans woman not allowed to play women's internationals
- Sri Lanka will play international cricket, but ICC will control funding
- 2024 Men's U19 WC moved from SL to SA
- Equal match day pay for ICC umpires in men's & women's cricket
- Stop clock on trial basis to record time taken between overs in men's ODIs & T20Is

WC qualifiers: India go down to Qatar

TANMAY DAS @ Bhubaneswar

India and Qatar players in action during the FIFA 2026 World Cup Qualifiers at the Kalinga Stadium in Bhubaneswar on Tuesday | DEBADATTA MALLICK

Just before the match, football's English royalty former Arsenal coach Arsene Wenger stood alongside Odisha chief minister Naveen Patnaik and All India Football Federation president Kalyan Chaubey as the national anthems were played in the stadiums PA systems. The excitement was palpable at the Kalinga Stadium. The occasion was fitting too — an World Cup qualifier. In the middle were India, fresh from a away win against Kuwait and World Cup hosts and formidable foe Qatar.

On paper, India are not the favourites but miracles do take place on the field. Hope is what sports give. However, Tuesday, it was not to be. Though there were moments for the hosts in patches, Qatar dominated the pace, at times jogged through the game too. Though the match was not as attractive with both teams looking patchy, Qatar looked dominant to outplay India 3-0. Two early goals in the either half were enough to push the hosts back. With this win in the FIFA World Cup 2026 qualifier and AFC Asian Cup 2027 Preliminary joint qualification Round 2, Qatar is on top.

India were without four first-team regulars — centreback Anwar Ali (ankle injury), midfielder Jeakson Singh (shoulder injury) and winger Ashique Kuruniyan (anterior crucial ligament injury) and star forward Manvir Singh who featured in their last victory against Kuwait.

It was never easy for India to hold out against high-ranked Qatar team. In fact, if not for misses they would have won with a bigger margin. It looked relatively easy to dictate the tempo of the match. However, India too had a couple of good chances, the best was when Anirudh Thapa wasted a chance three minutes from the break.

Qatar went all out from the beginning and took an early lead. Goalkeeper Amrinder Singh, who was fielded in place of regular Gurpreet Singh, did not seem too confident in the beginning and was the culprit of at least three miss-passes that could have cost India dear. The first goal was scored by Moustafa Mashal after the ball was lost in the milee of Indian defenders. Masahl pounced on it and fired a grounder in the corner. Amarinder too came to India's rescue with some good lusty saved. Qatar kept marauding Indian defence, however, their forwards looked jaded and lacking in intent.

The second half began like the first and the visitors scored in the first few minutes. Akram Afif, who created several scoring chances for Qatar during the first-half, tried to blast past Amrinder but was half-saved. Almoez Ali pounced on the spill and doubled the lead. In the 86th minute, Yusuf Abdurisag, with a brilliant header, took the match away from India.

Forward-thinking: Upadhyay wants to honour legacy in '24

KALYANI MANGALE @ Chennai

LALIT Upadhyay has played a lot of hockey for India, including the recent crowning moment of the men's team, the bronze medal in the 2020 Tokyo Olympics. But it's the chance to play with the players coming through the ranks that excites him the most. And he is taking that responsibility as a senior player while representing Uttar Pradesh in the 13th Hockey India Senior Men's National Championship in Chennai.

"It is important for Indian hockey," Upadhyay told this daily during an interaction on the sidelines of the nationals. "The upcoming and young players can learn a lot by looking at the senior international players and they are getting that opportunity through this tournament. They can see where they can and what they can achieve in hockey by playing alongside the senior players. And for the players representing the national team, it feels good to represent our states because we generally don't get those opportunities."

The Senior National Championship is being held in the city after the Indian team's unbeaten run in the Asian Champions Trophy and the Asiad in Hangzhou. The gold medal in the continental event, helped India secure the quota for the Paris Olympics in 2024. Upadhyay believes the dominant show was the result of the preparation that went into those two events as they were aiming for the podium finish. "Before the Asian Games, we knew the Olympic quota was on the line and we went step by step in the competition as well. Winning the medal is always the priority going into any tournament. If we look at the bigger picture of dominating the world hockey, first, we have to prove ourselves in Asia. Keeping all of this in perspective, winning the gold in the Asiad was vital for us. I wouldn't say it was not a relief, because once you put on that India jersey you have that fire within that helps you improve every day and do better for the country. We celebrate once we achieve the target but that fire keeps burning for the next text," the 29-year-old forward was candid in his response.

TUESDAY'S RESULTS

Haryana bt Chhattisgarh 13-1; Punjab bt Maharashtra 4-2; Kerala drew Rajasthan 2-2; Uttar Pradesh bt Puducherry 3-2; Odisha bt Delhi 9-1.

And he has kept that fire burning in him since the historic bronze medal, which he believes started the new era in Indian hockey. Reflecting on the past, which has seen highs and lows since before the independence, Upadhyay laid down his own perspective about the legacy this generation of hockey players are carrying. "Hockey has seen many golden years in the past. We consider ourselves extremely fortunate that we get the opportunity to carry forward that glorious legacy of Indian hockey. If we were to only listen to those stories and not add anything to them from our side, what's the point? We are receiving all kinds of support for the game, so it becomes our responsibility to perform our best. I think that is why winning that bronze medal in the Olympics was crucial for us. We know expectations have raised and we will try our best to better the colour of the medal in Paris," he said while paying his tribute to the past generations and expressing his hopes for 2024.

If India is hoping to convert their bronze from Tokyo to gold, they will need Upadhyay to play his role in the lead-up to the tournament and during it as well. And for a player with more than 150 caps for India, it's the team around him and the experience he has gained over the last nine years that keeps him going. "Experience is not just about the matches we play. It's the mix of the mentality, injuries we go through, the time we are away from the game, and whatnot. We are very proud to be part of Indian hockey. I think I have been very fortunate to be part of great teams supported by some inspirational support staff. And the success comes through the collective efforts of everyone who is part of Hockey India. I have had an amazing journey with this team. I hope it continues the same way," he added.

As a senior player for his state team, Uttar Pradesh, Upadhyay is hoping for a podium finish in the senior national tournament.

Southgate upbeat despite drab draw with North Macedonia

AGENCIES @ Skopje (Republic of North Macedonia)

GARETH Southgate insists England's lacklustre finish to the Euro 2024 qualifying campaign will mean nothing when they start their bid to win the tournament in Germany.

Such are the expectations that Southgate is working under these days that qualifying with an unbeaten record from a potentially tricky group including Italy and Ukraine earned him few plaudits.

Being held to a 1-1 draw by North Macedonia on Monday meant England failed to beat a side as low as 66th in the FIFA rankings for the first time since 2016, when they drew with Slovenia. But with a runners-up finish at the last European Championship in 2021, as well as World Cup semifinal and quarterfinal appearances in the Southgate era, England's status as one of the Euro favourites is well earned after six victories from their eight qualifiers. And Southgate is confident England's drab end to the qualifying campaign will prove nothing more than an irrelevant blip. "The really big results were in March against Italy and Ukraine. It meant coming here was a completely different test," he said.

"I thought that given we had already qualified and everything had been achieved the mentality of the players was excellent."

RESULTS

North Macedonia 1-1 England; Ukraine 0-0 Italy; Albania 0-0 Faroe Islands; Czech Republic 3-0 Moldova; Northern Ireland 2-0 Denmark; San Marino 1-2 Finland; Slovenia 2-1 Kazakhstan.

In the other half, Harinder Pal Singh Sandhu got past Veer Chotrani 11-9, 11-7, 11-9. He will face Velavan Senthilkumar in the semis. Senthilkumar defeated Vedant Patel 11-3, 11-4, 11-7. In the women's singles, Asian Games silver medallist Tanvi cruised past Shameena Riaz 11-5, 11-4, 11-4.

Pistorius will have another chance at parole

ASSOCIATED PRESS @ Cape Town

OSCAR Pistorius will have a second chance at parole at a hearing on Friday after he was wrongly ruled ineligible for early release from prison in March. South Africa's department of corrections said in a statement on Monday that a parole board will consider the former Olympic runner's case again this week and decide "whether the inmate is suitable or not for social integration."

Pistorius, a world-famous double-amputee athlete who broke barriers by competing on carbon-fiber running blades at the 2012 London Olympics, has been in prison since late 2014 for the shooting death of girlfriend Reeva Steenkamp. He was initially convicted of culpable homicide, an offense comparable to manslaughter, for shooting Steenkamp multiple times through a closed toilet cubicle door in his home in the South African capital, Pretoria, in the predawn hours of Valentine's Day 2013.

His conviction was upgraded to murder and he was ultimately sentenced to 13 years and five months in prison after a series of appeals by prosecutors. Serious offenders in South Africa must serve at least half their sentence before they are eligible for parole.

Pistorius' case and his parole eligibility have been complicated by those appeals by prosecutors, who first challenged his culpable homicide conviction and then a sentence of six years for murder, which they called shockingly lenient.

The Supreme Court of Appeal eventually ruled in 2017 that Pistorius should serve

South Africa's minimum sentence of 15 years for murder, but took into account the year and seven months he had already served for culpable homicide when it delivered the 13 years and five months sentence.

However, the court made an error by not counting another period Pistorius had served while his murder sentence was being appealed, meaning he was in fact eligible for parole in March when he was told at his first hearing that he would only be eligible in August 2024.

SHORT TAKE

The double amputee, who started serving his sentence in 2014, lost his first bid for parole in March.

Department of Correctional Services said he had not completed the minimum detention period required.

Prisoners in South Africa are automatically eligible for parole consideration after serving half of their sentence.

Pistorius had been thought to have served more than half, having started his term in 2014.

26th world title for cueist Advani

DOHA: Indian cueist Pankaj Advani won the IBSF World Billiards Championship title here on Tuesday for a staggering 26th time, beating compatriot Sourav Kothari in the final. Advani defeated Kothari 1000'416 in a rematch of last year's title clash in Kuala Lumpur. He had won his first world title in this competition way back in 2005. While Advani has won the 'long format' for the ninth time, he triumphed in the 'point format' championship on eight occasions, besides winning the World Team Billiards Championship once.

FLIGHT OF A MILLION YEARS

HRITHIK KIRAN BAGADE

Closely related to dinosaurs, birds have evolved from the Jurassic period to become highly-successful and versatile living organisms, depicting evolution as it happens

DO we have dinosaurs living amongst us? Consider this! The sparrow that just landed on your window ledge, or the crow cawing from the tree outside, can trace their common lineage back millions of years, when a group of meat-eating dinosaurs called theropods evolved into bird-like creatures over generations, creating the strain of the first ancestors of our feathered friends. Theropods are the same family of dinosaurs to which Tyrannosaurus Rex belonged. Though birds are known to have evolved from smaller theropods, their ancestry dates to a much older phase, with the oldest bird fossils being mapped to 150 million years ago.

Birds are among the most conspicuously recognisable fauna inhabiting our planet. They are a diverse group, comprising more than 10,000 extant species, occupying a range of ecological niches, from forests, deserts, caves, the Savannah, water bodies, the Poles, to even cities. They are distinct in their anatomical features, ranging in size from the tiny bee hummingbird (~2 grams) to the mighty ostrich (~140,000 grams).

Biologically classified as Aves, birds are nearly perfect evolved beings. For instance, penguins have wings that have evolved into flippers and their bodies have taken a cylindrical shape, allowing them to dart through seawater, as they hunt for fish or outswim predators – such as orcas and leopard seals. Likewise, other flightless birds, such as the kiwi, which has a small body closer to the ground and a long narrow beak to help it forage for insects, have developed specific body structures suited to their geographical habitats. Another principal reason for these terrestrial birds to lose their ability to fly is a lack of natural predators. However, most birds do fly, with their feathered bodies optimised for flight. They have specific body features such as sharp beaks and talons among carnivorous raptors, the ability to turn their necks 135 degrees and uniquely-positioned eyes among nocturnal owls, a strong beak allowing woodpeckers to peck at 1300 Gs, and webbed feet allowing ducks to wade on lake surfaces. Wings of albatrosses and terns allow them to glide as they seasonally migrate thousands of miles in search of food and nesting grounds. Overall, the supercharged growth rates and metabolism in birds stand out amongst living organisms, while their large brains, keen senses, and the supreme ability to vocalise, use tools, build elaborate nests, and develop strong bonds (a lot of birds mate for life and care for offspring), make them some of the smartest animals in nature.

How did birds arrive at this diversity and evolutionary success? Over the decades, a wealth of new fossil discoveries, molecular phylogenetic analyses of living birds, and quantitative macroevolutionary study have revolutionised our understanding of the origins of birds. This new information reveals the aforesaid theory, that birds evolved from dinosaurs and share a deep natural history with them. Their signature body plan evolved over 100 million years of steady evolution, alongside their dinosaurian forefathers, before several modern groups of birds diversified after the non-avian dinosaurs went extinct 65 mya.

According to most experts, birds first appeared in the Jurassic period, with the earliest specimens derived from a clade of theropods named Paraves. For over a century, the small theropod dinosaur 'Archaeopteryx lithographica' from the Late Jurassic period was considered to be the earliest bird. Four distinct bird lineages survived the Cretaceous-Paleogene extinction of 65 mya – ostriches and relatives (Palaeognathae), waterfowl (Anseriformes), ground-living fowl (Galliformes), and modern birds (Neoaves). It is also widely accepted phylogenetically that Aves are usually defined as all descendants of the most recent common ancestor of a specific modern bird species (such as house sparrow), and either Archaeopteryx, or some prehistoric species closer to Neornithes. If the latter classification is used, the larger group is termed Avialae. Currently, the relationship between dinosaurs, Archaeopteryx, and modern birds is still hotly debated.

Enigma of the Archaeopteryx

In 1861, the first fossil of an Archaeopteryx was discovered in Germany. Like modern average-sized birds, the fossil revealed that this creature grew to a size of 1 ft 8 inches, like a raven, and was found to possess feathers along its arms and tail, but unlike living birds, had teeth and a long bony tail. Also, many of the bones in Archaeopteryx's forelimbs, shoulder girdles, pelvis, and feet weren't fused and reduced, similar to birds. The skeletal remains also showed the presence of jaws with sharp teeth and three fingers with claws – hyperextensible second toes (killing claw). Separately, it had close ties with small Mesozoic dinosaurs. In this regard, Archaeopteryx shared links with Maniraptora, a group of theropods such as dromaeosauridae (Velociraptor and Deinonychus) and oviraptoridae (Oviraptor, Utahraptor, etc). These factors led to the long-standing theory of this hybrid marvel being the missing evolutionary piece of the bird-dinosaur puzzle. "Archaeopteryx seemed to emerge fully fledged with the characteristics of modern birds," says Michael Benton, a palaeontologist at the University of Bristol, as quoted by Scientific American. Interestingly, Archaeopteryx even predates most known dinosaur species, which appeared in the Triassic period. This fact makes birds an animal group in constant evolutionary transition, even from before the days of the dinosaurs.

How did most large dinosaurs go extinct during the mass extinction of 65 mya, while several smaller ones survived and evolved into birds, in the perfect example of Survival of the Fittest, confirming Darwin's theories? Careful observations in recent times have allowed scientists to propound the "hopeful monster theory", which states that the perfection that birds attempted to achieve over millions of years required major evolutionary leaps, with large-scale genetic changes that are qualitatively different from routine modifications within a species. Substantial alterations on a short timescale, led to a sudden transformation from a 300-pound theropod to an Iberomesornis (prehistoric sparrow-size bird).

Even from the days of the Archaeopteryx, it is learnt that unique features such as the growth of feathers proved advantageous. Discoveries reveal that birds simply adapted these pre-existing features to a novel use to survive. Also, the adoption of a more baby-like skull shape into adulthood – likely played an essential role in the final push to bird-hood. Not only are birds smaller than their dinosaur ancestors, but they resemble dinosaur embryos. Such adaptations paved the way for modern birds' distinguishing features, like their ability to fly and their agile beaks, a significant leap in evolution through small steps.

Wings that won

In the 1990s, an array of new dinosaur fossils were unearthed in China, which doubted the theories of that time. Feathers, once thought unique to birds, must have evolved in dinosaurs themselves, towards the Early Jurassic period, long before birds had even developed. It showed avian features evolved over time and continue to evolve, however retaining the common character of 'Dinosauria'.

Modern palaeontologists such as Steve Brusatte from the University of Edinburgh, are digging deeper into this evolutionary conundrum. Brusatte examined fossils of Coelurosaurs, a theropod sub-group that produced the Archaeopteryx, and tracked changes in skeletal properties to discover that there were no great jumps distinguishing birds from other Coelurosaurs. Also, it is suggested that modern evolutionary leaps did not produce birds. Rather, birds produced modern leaps in evolution. Another theory that explains the success of modern birds from their less-successful ancestors, is miniaturisation. Some Coelurosaurs started shrinking as far back as 200 mya – 50 million years before Archaeopteryx. "The distinct, prolonged phase of miniaturisation along the bird stem would have facilitated the evolution of many novelties associated with small body size, such as reorientation of body mass, increased aerial ability, and paedomorphic skulls with reduced snouts but enlarged eyes and brains," mentions an article published in Science magazine. The small size meant lesser body weight, requiring lesser food, easier to protect against rough weather and surviving large predators, and a longer lifespan.

Overtime, birds lost their teeth, and developed strong beaks allowing them to eat more nuts, fruit, small insects, and seeds, while the growth of wings, webbed feet, and flippers made them the most versatile group in the animal kingdom. Some of them developed strong eyesight for a panoramic view of the Earth below. So, the next time you hear a koel cooing outside your window, remember it's humming a million-year-old song.

Ahead of their departure for the 2023 Women's FIH Hockey Junior World Cup from B'luru – which kicks off next week in Chile – players from Team India share the lessons they are taking from their title-winning Asia Cup campaign

STICKING TOGETHER

DESE GOWDA

Fresh off their historic maiden title at the Women's Junior Asia Cup 2023, the Indian junior women's hockey team is poised for a strong showing at the upcoming FIH Women's Junior World Cup, to be held in Santiago, Chile between Nov 29 and Dec 10. The team's preparation at Sports Authority of India (SAI) for the World Cup has been rigorous, involving not just physical training but also mental conditioning.

"We're doing a lot of prep, so far it's been good. Apart from practising, we have also been doing a lot of conditioning, and mental training," shares Preeti, captain of the Indian squad. "The only objective we have is to get the medal for India and so far we've been training our hardest to be able to deliver our best and achieve the dream."

Announced earlier this month, the World Cup squad features goalkeepers Khushboo, and Madhuri Kindo; defenders Neelam, Preeti, Jyoti Singh, Ropni Kumari; midfielders Mahima Tete, Manju Chorsiya, Jyoti Chhatri, Hina Bano, Sujata Kujur, Rutuja Pisal; and forwards Sakshi Rana, Mumtaz Khan, Annu, Deepika Soreng, Dipi Monika Toppo, Sunelita Toppo. Positioned in Pool C alongside Germany, Belgium, and Canada, the Indian team is gearing up for some challenging matches.

> We are focussing on our strengths and weaknesses that were highlighted during the Asia Cup
> Rutuja Pisal, vice-captain of Indian junior women's hockey team

"While hockey is a very physical game, it also needs a lot of mental preparation. Going against some of the best teams from around the world requires us to adapt quickly. But we have a strong rapport amongst ourselves in the team. I just hope that whatever we are learning now, we'll be able to successfully apply during the tournament," Preeti adds.

Despite the high stakes, their impressive campaign at the Asia Cup earlier this year has buoyed the team's spirits, as well as provided them with key insights into their strengths and weaknesses. "The (Asia Cup) final (against South Korea) was incredibly emotional for every one of us, especially given how the match played. During the final minutes, we were under enormous pressure to protect our lead and make sure we didn't make any mistakes. And when the countdown ended, the sense of relief and triumph was just incredible," shares vice-captain Rutuja Pisal. "Going into the World Cup, we are focussing on our strengths and weaknesses that were highlighted during the Asia Cup. The key thing is to never give up and always support each other in the team."

According to Preeti, one of the things that they need to be careful about heading into the campaign in Chile is to not be complacent. "Winning the Asia Cup was obviously a historic moment for us. It was also a very emotional moment. All of us were happy, especially since we were able to beat a strong team like South Korea four times during the course of the tournament, including at the final," she says, adding, "We had performed well at the last World Cup, but we could only finish fourth. The only thing that I would like us to learn from the experience is that we don't become complacent and let our guard down until the very end of a match. There have been instances where such a mindset has cost us."

1. War memorials are considered markers of history. The cityscape of Bengaluru dots many such memorials. While some have vanished, some still survive the test of time. A 35-feet-tall memorial pillar was built at the entrance of Halasuru Gate of Bengaluru fort in memory of 50-odd soldiers (both British and Indians) who died in the 1791 Siege of Bangalore and other Anglo-Mysore wars. The historic pillar was demolished completely with an official sanction on October 28, 1964. Name the lost memorial.

2. The historic war memorial statue of the 'Unknown Soldier' erected in memory of the soldiers from Bengaluru who martyred their lives in the first World War was relocated to the National Military Memorial Park on Raj Bhavan Road to facilitate Metro-rail work. Which traffic square/ junction was the statue originally located?

3. The imposing Sappers war memorial located at the junction of Bengaluru's iconic Brigade Road was unveiled way back in 1928 in memory of 350 soldiers of the first Madras Pioneers regiment who gave their lives in the first World War. The monument also mentions the various battles fought by the regiment, including the Carnatic wars, Anglo-Mysore wars, the Afghan and Burmese War. Name the iconic church (built in 1841) located on Brigade Road near the war memorial.

Finding inspiration closer home

Priyanshu Painyuli's depiction of his latest role, Major Ram Mehta, in the recently-released Pippa is mostly by observation of his father, a retired Colonel

Though excited about being part of a war movie like his recently-released Pippa, actor Priyanshu Painyuli was sure that his character Major Ram Mehta was quite different from his personality. However, to perfect his role, he found inspiration at home. "My father is a retired Colonel. I have picked up things from him and have taken inspiration from many Army officers I have met during my lifetime. But apart from being a war hero, this character is also the elder brother in the family who is like a father figure. Getting that transition right was tricky since I have grown up with siblings but have never been the older one," says Painyuli.

The movie, which was released on OTT, is based on the life of Captain Balram Singh Mehta, played by Ishan Khattar, of India's 45 Cavalry regiment who, along with his siblings, fought on the eastern front during the Bangladesh Liberation War of 1971. Painyuli was quite happy with the way his character was treated and was looking forward to the release. "This was the most special ones of my picks and as an actor, it's great to do a war movie. This movie ticks that box and in many ways, ticks other things on my bucket list, like working in an AR Rahman movie," says Painyuli.

Being a war hero, Painyuli's character gives a very no-nonsense essence to it, with very little emotion and even fewer dialogues. For example, there is a scene where a young boy is shot dead in front of him but being a war hero and having seen it all already, he hardly shows any emotions. "I don't think I spoke to the director Raja (Krishna Menon) sir a lot about this. He just said let's get on with the scene and let's see what you do. I thought this is the way I would approach it (sic)," he recalls.

Painyuli generally does not like to complicate his process. "The script helps me understand the world very well. Also, I want to challenge myself with something different and exciting each time. I have also been lucky to find those kinds of characters, diverse stories seem to be coming my way," he adds.

A still from the film

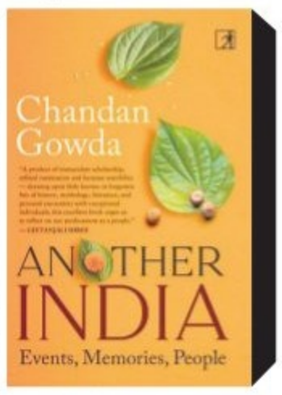
AMONG the many aspects of India that evoke a sense of pride is its vibrant cultural heritage. The subcontinent has been home to many a culture, language, and religion. Yet urban India has never been more homogeneous. An urbanite from Bengaluru would be right at home in any of the other distant cities in the country, but less so in a village just a few hundred kilometres away. In the quest for an egalitarian future, sections of the country have left behind the past, while wholly embracing ideals from the West. But to many, the keys to the country's future lies in the lesson from India's past.

"Modern society operates with a set of binaries: urban-rural, modern-traditional, secular-religious, written-oral. And these binaries are all set up to favour the first of the two. The urban way of life is seen as the preferred way to be, while the rural way of life is seen as lacking sophistication, one that is backward and something that isn't going to be around for much longer," says Chandan Gowda, academician and author of the book Another India: Events, Memories, People (Simon & Schuster India; ₹699). "This sort of thinking, which arose around 150 years ago, is getting stronger although the rural ways of life prevail in large parts of India. It is tragic that educated Indians lack an awareness of the living knowledge and the literary and artistic contributions seen in rural and tribal India. Workers with a rural background in an urban setting will likely have a robust awareness of these achievements. But we don't count that knowledge as valuable and view them as unskilled people who can be trained to do plumbing and repair work in cities."

The Ramakrishna Hegde Chair Professor of Decentralisation and Development at the Institute for Social and Economic Change, Gowda's latest book, released earlier this year, is a work of social anthropology that explores India's rich history and traditions, as well as its cultural evolution. From traversing the world of Sufis, barbers, and village Gods, to offering insights into the lives of literary and historical figures such as BR Ambedkar, Kuvempu, and Rammanohar Lohiya among others, the book presents the often unwritten facets of India's history and culture to the readers. "It's about alerting ourselves to the India that exists outside the one we run into in our daily lives and questioning what modern culture is doing to us as a people. Regretting the growing disconnect with Indian cultural realities is not to suggest a replacement of Western ideals with local ideals. Western notions of equality and freedom have generated great political and moral creativity in India over the last two centuries, which is now part of our tradition," explains Gowda, adding, "Many of the individuals that I discuss in my book have forged creative links between local cultural ideals with modern democratic ideals. Figures like Kuvempu, Lohiya, Jayaprakash Narayan, and Devnuru Mahadeva, are all trying to respond to contemporary political demands, by reaching out to moral conversations in the past. The point is that people who care for equality will be wrong to think that traditional society is illiberal and nothing more. This blanket dismissal will not let them see how traditional societies felt uncomfortable about their own cultures, and how they fashioned ethical responses."



The book is primarily meant for the younger generation and the anglophone intelligentsia, whom Gowda believes are increasingly detached from vital cultural conversations. "It's not a grim political programme of correcting the missteps of modern culture. But rather a nudge towards a variety of places where we could be looking and seeking creative inspiration. It's also for the anglophone intelligentsia whose moral and aesthetic imagination shows little awareness about India's vernacular worlds," Gowda adds.

One of the fascinating chapters in the book delves into the historical tradition of dissent in India. "I write about this episode of protest that Dharampal, the Gandhian thinker, has dug out from the British documents on colonial India. In 1810, the people of Banares sat in dharna outside the city to express disapproval of the hike in tax on houses and shops that the British had made. Since they were unarmed, they expected the British to not be violent towards them. The British viewed it as sedition and put it down with force," he explains, adding, "Gandhi's satyagraha, which drew from old Indian customs of protest like the one seen in Banaras, did not play by the rules of dissent that the British had laid down like writing petitions, filing court cases, etc. Radical dissent involves great intellectual and moral creativity."

The dreams of being a filmmaker

HRIDAY RANJAN
Urban Bourbon
(Writer, comedian)

I once heard that every Indian wants to write a book, and direct a movie. I also nursed a secret ambition to make a movie one day. Of course, it wasn't my only dream – train engine driver, opening Test batsman, and a pan-India Mithun Chakraborty were also some of my other ambitions.

Maybe I was enamoured by the directors' intelligence, or that they were well-read. That they were telling immortal stories, that films were an amalgamation of different art forms. Directors were artistes leaving their footprints on the sands of time. That is till I became a film critic myself, and found that most directors helm projects with an aim to mint money from the audiences.

Feature films have always been an obsession, but I was also in awe of documentary filmmakers. Most Indian documentaries are about depressing topics – murders, murderers, and families killing each other. I often wondered why nobody saw the beauty in our country. As a standup comedian, I craved a funny documentary. And then, my friend decided to contest the Assembly elections as an independent candidate. And I decided to document the entire process.

I have always had the highest regard for the Election Commission of India. We don't give our country enough credit for staying a democracy for all these decades. Isn't it amazing that with all our differences, our diverse cultures and origins – we managed to remain one nation? Indian politicians have been given a terrible name due to our movies. Can you name a single movie where the politician is a good person – and doesn't die by the interval? The documentary would be my attempt to change the perception of documentaries, of Indian politics. It would give Indians something to be proud of.

Of course, my producers didn't seem to agree. For weeks, I tried to convince them about my intentions. But they wanted to know the profitability of the product. We began to discuss strategies, target audiences, and Returns on Investment. Before I knew it, it felt like I was creating a campaign for a soap brand – and not a heartfelt tribute to the Indian electoral system. I pulled out of the contract – and like Bheeshma in Mahabharata – vowed to make it by myself.

Which would make for a dramatic scene in a movie. But reality is a hard-hitting hand pump straight out of Gadar. As things stand, I am now producing and directing a lighthearted documentary on the Indian elections – told through the eyes of an independent candidate with zero budget or political connections. I am raising funds from my school friends, and crowdfunding the project by myself. We are a team of first-timers on an impossible dream.

My dream of becoming a director involved having a large crew taking orders. We are now eight people waiting for each other to finish using the bathroom. I dreamt of piping hot coffee served in a thermos flask. I now serve chai to my crew. I dreamt of a plush caravan, and me screaming 'Action!' and 'Cut!'. I now aim to shoot on the sly, before we lose sunlight. I dreamt of people whistling and cheering when my movie plays. But now, I am doing it for myself. For the joy of seeing the word 'Directed by Hriday Ranjan' on the screen for the first time. I am sorry, Dear Reader – for the first time in five years, I have no finishing joke to my column. But I know that there must be a desire smouldering inside you. Swallow it so it burns like fire in your belly – and go make it happen!

From the bin to the bowl

In conversation with CE, chef and author Arina Suchde talks about her new book and the striving reason that paved the way for its creation

SREELAKSHMI S NAIR

HAS it ever crossed your mind that the amount of garbage we dispose in the name of food waste can actually be turned into delectable culinary creations? Well, here is author and chef Arina Suchde turning up the zero waste game with her new book titled The No-Waste Kitchen Cookbook, where she is revolutionising this concept while cooking. This Mumbai-based author has curated a set of 75 dishes, starting from giving leftover food a makeover to brewing tea with the most unexpected ingredients.

Excerpts follow:

What is the central focus of The No-Waste Kitchen Cookbook?

This book is a starting point for anyone who wants to reduce waste in their kitchen and make the most of the ingredients they buy, which also saves money in the process. The idea is to make this practice a part of our daily lives and not just a passing fad. The recipes and ideas are simple and easy to implement.

Could you highlight some of the most surprising or unexpected recipes from your book that can be creatively used to repurpose kitchen scraps and minimise food waste?

The recipes using banana peels surprised most people, as they did not think they were edible. The same was true of the fresh pea pods. Those are things that get left behind in large quantities and can easily be incorporated back into our meals.

Can you elaborate on your 'Trash Cooking' workshops and how they contribute to spreading awareness about sustainable cooking practices?

The workshops are informal and interactive, and I have conversations with the participants while I demonstrate a few zero-waste recipes. They make reducing waste a less intimidating task and spark memories among people about how someone in their family used lesser-known parts of fruits and vegetables, and everyone shares stories and ideas.

People go back home inspired and excited to try cooking with these new ingredients and tasting the dishes taught in the workshop gives them reassurance that peels, skins, stalks, seeds, etc. are not actually waste; they are in fact bonus ingredients that can be used to create some amazing dishes or drinks.

How do you think that sustainability can be introduced into everyday kitchen practices? What role does your book play in fostering this approach?

Sustainability practices need to be introduced and incorporated into our lives as a whole, and not just in the kitchens. The idea is to do it one step at a time and not just on an individual level but as families, societies, and communities at large. Think of this book as teaching someone the alphabet and giving them tools to form words, then sentences, and go on to become fluent in that language over time.

Elaborate on the process behind developing recipes using ingredients that are typically considered food waste or leftovers.

The process is no different from developing recipes with any other ingredient. The waste or leftover ingredients need to be thought of as new ingredients to work with, like we would with any exotic ingredient. The point is to change our perspective, and one can easily come up with recipes. Start with simpler recipes, familiar dishes that can either use the whole fruit or vegetable or ingredients that can be replaced by a 'waste' ingredient. Like the som tam recipe in the book, which traditionally uses raw papaya, I used watermelon rind as it is similar in colour and texture. Using an assortment of greens and their stems in pesto instead of just basil.

'No machine can alter true emotions'

...says director Deepak Aras opening up about his decade-long hiatus after Manasology, and return with Sugar Factory

DEEPAK Aras commenced his directorial journey with Manasology in 2012. A decade later, he returns with his second venture, Sugar Factory, after a significant hiatus. Reflecting on this break, he admits, "After Manasology, there was a sense of remorse. Despite directing and producing it, the film fell short of expectations. I believed I had the maturity to create a film but lacked the maturity to navigate its release. I lacked insight into business strategies and dealing with the Gandhinagar hub. My film was released when the industry was transitioning from negative to digital, and I felt inadequate in decision-making, relying heavily on various suggestions. It took time to acknowledge and accept failure. I was hurt, which led me to refocus on my business. Yet, my passion for cinema never waned."

As he gears up for the theatrical release of Sugar Factory on November 24, Deepak shares the intriguing genesis of the story. He recounts how the idea struck him while distributing his sister, actor Amulya's wedding invitation cards. "After a weary day, a chance encounter at a pub captivated me for over two hours. The incident lingered in my mind. Later, after Amulya's wedding, I revisited the story with a clear objective, determined to entertain," he explains.

Sugar Factory delves into today's generation's relationship with pub culture, exploring their perception of love and the tendency to take it for granted. "This time, I aim to impart philosophical insights in an entertaining format. The film promises a realistic portrayal while emphasizing that no machine or mechanism can alter true emotions. Despite carrying a strong message, it remains a quintessential entertainer."

When it came to casting, Deepak was drawn to Krishna, the director of Love Mocktail, specifically impressed by the song 'Love You Chinna' from the film. "Subsequently, I brought on board Krishna, followed by producer Girish, Adviti Shetty, Sonal Monterio, and Ruhani Shetty. The pub itself becomes a character integral to the film's narrative," says Deepak, who sought to infuse quality through cinematographer Santhosh Rai Pathaje's expertise, aiming to bring a distinct texture akin to Bollywood. "Being a fervent music enthusiast, I collaborated with Kabir Rafi, who composed six captivating songs, igniting an infectious spark within the album," he says.

Through his journey, Deepak has learned from the highs and lows, acknowledging the importance of avoiding repeated mistakes. "However, I staunchly believed that the flame of passion for cinema must never be extinguished. Beginning with Sugar Factory, I aim to delve into more stories and continue my cinematic journey."

IF I DIDN'T BELIEVE IN MYSELF, I WOULDN'T BE HERE: ABISHEK AMBAREESH

The actor discusses carving his own identity, his upcoming film, Bad Manners, director Suri, and much more

A SHARADHAA

ABISHEK Ambareesh, hailing from a celebrated lineage, confronts the weight of legacy in his acting journey. Being the son of well-known actors Ambareesh and Sumalatha, the one-film-old actor aims to carve a unique identity, seeking visibility and genuine affection from the audience. He also understands the burden of measuring up to his parents' illustrious stature. Ahead of the release of his sophomore film, Bad Manners, on November 24, Abishek discusses the film, working with director Suri, and much more.

"In this industry, the expectations are immense. The challenge goes beyond facing a film crew; it's about meeting the hopes of countless fans. Navigating this legacy demands resilience and a determined spirit to excel—a sentiment shared among those with a heritage like mine," says Abishek.

When asked about the qualities needed to be a hero, Abishek says it is all about self-belief. "If I didn't believe in myself, I wouldn't be here." He believes a hero's traits vary widely and cites examples from the Kannada industry, highlighting how the top ten heroes differ in their acting, speech, mannerisms, fight sequences, and dancing styles. "According to me, there's no single formula for being a hero; each one is distinct. As a hero, we should have the ability to connect with the audience and consistently deliver quality entertainment through good films."

Abishek emphasises that the striking red line in the title logo of Bad Manners is symbolic of the fine boundary between our perceptions of good and bad. "What might be bad for me could be good for you, and vice versa," says Abishek, who also lists out what he thinks are certain bad manners. "Being inconsiderate of others' time and not living up to one's true potential is bad."

Talking more about the film, which he feels isn't confined to a specific genre or routine narrative, Abishek says, "The film poses an important question, and incorporates action as a crucial element that seamlessly aligns with the storyline, driving it forward without disrupting the narrative flow."

This film marks Abishek's first collaboration with Suri, who has a distinct signature style. Is it important to study a director's previous work before collaborating? "Personally, I prioritise connecting with the director and aligning our visions, work ethics, mindset, and ambition for a specific project. While I'm familiar with Suri's films, I'm also open to collaborating with newcomers if our values align. Suri's signature style lies in his unwavering commitment to his unique vision, and his refusal to follow trends. He consistently presents stories from a fresh perspective, avoiding trends and embracing new angles," he says.

The film also has Abishek wielding the gun with elan. "We had inputs from an ex-IPS officer, Umesh, to ensure authenticity in handling the weapon. Suri extensively researched the subject, and I also got to gather a little awareness about various locally made weapons, like katta and goda, and their accessibility. It is then that I realised how easy it is to acquire guns, despite the challenges in obtaining a gun license," he says.

While working on Bad Manners, Abhishek encountered many challenges, and he mentions, "After reading the script, the character felt quite relatable to me. Though the setting and background may differ, certain nuances, habits, and mannerisms aligned with how I would react and perceive situations. Amid lockdown restrictions, navigating discussions with Suri became challenging. Credit goes to the director for facilitating a smooth transition, making it easy to embody the character."

Having shown the film to his mother Sumalatha, his wife Aviva Bidapa, producer Rockline Venkatesh, and Challenging Star Darshan, Abishek is elated about their responses. In fact, the actor shares that Darshan gave the film a five-star rating and praised his development as an actor from his debut film, Amar. "Every film is a learning experience. In Amar, I portrayed a stoic character, who is less emotive, and it didn't really connect widely. In Bad Manners, playing Rudra, a boy-next-door, it felt relatable yet raw and rugged, which is a trademark Suri character. It's different from Amar."

While Abhi believes that entertainment is crucial, providing thought-provoking content is his ultimate goal. "Films should entertain and convey a message, and the best message with Bad Manners will be to see audiences leave the theaters happy, feeling entertained," he concludes.

Clash of the cultures

SUDHIR SRINIVASAN

EVEN as early as on the second day of IFFI, Goa, the chief utility of being exposed to films from across the world is becoming apparent. This introduction to new countries, new people, and new cultures, enables exposure, and through acknowledgement of the beauty of differences, empathy grows. And if that's not the point of artistic expression...

The opening film of the 54th IFFI, director Stuart Gatt's Catching Dust, is fittingly about a clash of cultures. It's about a man—and his wife—who have learned to live in the wilderness of Texas, and how their world gets thrown off when an urban couple become their only neighbours in the lonely desert. It's about gender roles and purpose; it's about passion and the notion of home. While one woman feels restricted for being born... a woman, another feels restricted by her past. There are two stifling marriages hurtling into each other, two different classes facing off.

It's a film that even questions biases concerning who's good and bad. Is it the alpha male who seems to be holding his wife captive—or is it the sophisticated artist who holds dark secrets? It's a film that speaks of the many colours that define a relationship and its many frustrations, and at the end, that wide shot of abstract artistic expression splattered on a trailer tells its own story. Long after the opening film, Catching Dust, got over, I was left reflecting on the complex relationship between nature and nurture, and how the cultures we are raised in often determine our personalities and desires.

SUN, SAND AND CINEMA

In this column, the writer reflects on the experiences of each day at the 54th International Film Festival of India, Goa

The attraction of IFFI, of course, isn't just about the films being screened. It's about all the healthy cinema dialogue that takes place too. On day 2 of IFFI, for instance, Zoya Akhtar and team spoke about the nuances of making their Netflix film, The Archies—which, fascinatingly enough, is also about the intermingling of two cultures. It's about the ambitious reimagination of The Archies comics in the Indian setting—and adding to the pressure of it all is the expectation that comes with making the world's first ever feature film on a beloved comic series. As Ruchika Kapoor, Director of Netflix Hindi Originals, put it, "It's not just a big moment for Netflix-India, but for India as a whole."

Zoya knew her work was cut out from the beginning. "We had to keep so many objectives in mind when making this. We were representing India with this film that Netflix is taking to 190 countries. We needed to make an older world relevant to Gen-Z. We needed to cater to the fans of Archies and those who didn't even know it," she said. Zoya, who has interpreted this adaptation as a musical, was never in doubt about this choice. "The idea of the musical is our syntax, our grammar. When presenting our cinema to the world through this film, there was no doubt that we should do it in a style, a tradition that we so dearly believe in. And I love shooting song and dance."

The young cast of the film apparently was quite unfamiliar with the ways of an older world. As Zoya put it, "One didn't know how to dial a landline phone; another didn't know how to play a vinyl record. This made me realise how the world had changed—and how I'm from a different time." Sometimes, a difference in culture needn't be as grand and obvious as an American story being set in India. It can exist within our own homes, as adults grapple to adapt to a changing world, as children resist the joys of a world that existed before them. We often process culture as this broad encompassing label beyond our families; sometimes, as The Archies and Catching Dust show us, it's a tender facet that comes alive within the intimacy of a family too.
